Stuck in the Middle a Generation X View of Talent Management Curtis L. Odom, 2012-01-01 Part of making things happen in your career as a company or as an individual is taking a hard look at things and saying These are my flaws These are my shortcomings These are my self defeating actions where I ve shot my success in the foot Any person or company who says they ve never done those things is hindering their success ruining their achievement and unwittingly keeping themselves stuck in the middle The unwillingness to do a hard current state assessment is a barrier between getting what you want and continuing to lack what you need Finding that progress gap is the secret ingredient in the magic formula for understanding what it is that you need not necessarily what you want and then taking the steps to get that result which leads to what you want Talent management is indeed a business imperative to build and grow a successful organization but more importantly it is also a personal imperative for professionals to build successful careers When people don t employ personal talent management in the way of owning their own succession plan when companies and organizations don t build and sustain an integrated talent management strategy they remain stuck in the middle somewhere between who they are and who they want to be How to get unstuck how to break free from the middle is what individuals and organizations often don't understand. That critical understanding and ability to take action on it to improve your situation is what you'll find in this book as told through the eyes of a member of Generation X. About the Author: Dr. Curtis L. Odom is Principal and Managing Partner of Prescient Talent Strategists. He has over 15 years of experience in talent development, performance consulting, training, and instructional design as a practitioner, researcher, author, and speaker. Curtis has an earned doctorate of education from Pepperdine University and has been industry certified as both a Human Capital Strategist (HCS) and Strategic Workforce Planner (SWP) from the Human Capital Institute. Dr. Odom is a member of the Human Capital Institute (HCI), International Society for Performance Improvement (ISPI), the American Society for Training and Development (ASTD), Phi Delta Kappa International Honor Society, and American Mensa. Curtis was honored with the distinction of being selected as a member of the Boston Business Journal Top 40 Under 40 Class for 2010.

Talent Management Value Imperatives Lynne Morton, 2005 The Executive Guide to High-Impact Talent Management: Powerful Tools for Leveraging a Changing Workforce David DeLong, Steve Trautman, 2010-12-13

Recent studies show that in the next few years many companies could have only about half the leaders and skilled workers they need, and that these talent shortages will be particularly acute in the critical sectors like engineering, health care, energy, government, manufacturing, and aerospace and defense. As a line executive, you need to ask yourself one question: Do we have who it takes to drive business performance in the future? In The Executive Guide to High Impact Talent Management, David DeLong and Steve Trautman combine wide-ranging research and real-world expertise to chart a clear and efficient path for senior leaders. They show how to not only reduce the risks of talent shortages but also maximize the payoff of workforce and leadership development investments. Sharing their findings based on more than 70 interviews with senior executives and top-rated talent experts and their own experience as leaders and consultants, DeLong and Trautman show you how to:

- Accurately diagnose talent-related risks that threaten performance.
- Efficiently evaluate and measure workforce and leadership investments.
- Ensure your staff is aligning talent processes to support business strategy.
- Accelerate leadership development and the transfer of critical knowledge.
- Communicate cultural principles that will drive recruiting, development, and retention programs.
- Assess the talent management IQ of your leadership team.
