personal terms the link between the global crisis in the social sciences and the need to find remedies for it that are neither Eurocentric nor parochially anti Western Professor Alexander Woodside Professor of Chinese and Southeast Asian History University of British Columbia Vancouver Canada This book marks the shift of the centre of Southeast Asian Studies from the West to Southeast Asia The insights provided by the authors are not simply explanations of colonial and postcolonial experiences of major Southeast Asian scholars Rather the book provides a unique set of intellectual genealogies that show that distinctions between humanities and social sciences are less important than the development of distinctive local and regional traditions and practices of scholarship Goh Beng Lans introduction frames the collection through her subtle deconstruction of international discourses on Southeast Asia This introduction then allows the reader to view the different generations of Southeast Asian scholars in their social political and academic contexts The end result is a combined view of the state of the art of Southeast Asian Studies a view that is greater than the sum of its national parts Professor Adrian Vickers Chair of Southeast Asian Studies University of Sydney and Director Australian Centre for Asian Art and Archaeology The collection represents a coming of age of scholars from Southeast Asia What we hear is not bluster that comes from a wounded pride or doctrinal certainties but a quiet confidence that acknowledges the multiple currents in which their scholarship has been formed and a willingness to engage the perspective of the other both within and without The reflexivity in this volume sets the stage for scholars from the region to develop perspectives and concepts to address the challenges of the new configuration of the Asia being ushered in by ASEAN Professor Prasenjit Duara Raffles Professor of Humanities and Director of Research Humanities and Social Sciences National University of Singapore

Boundaries of the Text Joyce Flueckiger, Laurie Sears, 1991-01-01 When the Mahabharata and Ramayana are performed in South and Southeast Asia audiences may witness a variety of styles A single performer may deliver a two hour recitation women may meet in informal singing groups shadow puppets may host an all night play or professional theaters may put on productions lasting thirty nights Performances often celebrate ritual passages births deaths marriages and religious observances The stories live and are transmitted through performance their characters are well known and well loved Yet written versions of the Mahabharata and Ramayana have existed in both South and Southeast Asia for hundreds of years Rarely have these texts been intended for private reading What is the relationship between written text and oral performance What do performers and audiences mean when they identify something as Ramayana or Mahabharata How do they conceive of texts What are the boundaries of the texts By analyzing specific performance traditions Boundaries of the Text addresses questions of what happens to written texts when they are performed and how performance traditions are affected when they interact with written texts The dynamics of this interaction are of particular interest in South and Southeast Asia where oral performance and written traditions share a long interwoven history The contributors to Boundaries of the Text show the difficulty of maintaining sharp distinctions between oral and written patterns as the traditions they consider defy a unidirectional movement from oral to written The boundaries of epic traditions are in a state of flux contracting or expanding as South and Southeast Asian societies respond to increasing access to modern education print technology and electronic media
