The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling John Rowan, 2014-02-25 The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling presents a revealing and stimulating account of the current state of training that demonstrates how training will have to adapt if it is to successfully meet the needs and challenges of the future In an attempt to look afresh at the whole question of training John Rowan proposes that there are three ways of doing therapy and any examination of training has to consider each of these the instrumental where the main emphasis is on the treating the client or patient the authentic way where the main emphasis is on meeting the client or patient the transpersonal way where main emphasis is on linking with the client in a more personal way Each approach makes different assumptions about the self about the relationship and about the level of consciousness involved in doing therapy By challenging the basic precepts of traditional training John Rowan encourages the reader to reconsider subjects including the difference between counselling and psychotherapy culture and ethics the origins of disturbance in clients and child development The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling provides a much needed new perspective that will compel all psychotherapists and counsellors to take a closer look at training in the field

This book gives an in depth analysis of the role of faith in the work of Tearfund a leading evangelical relief and development NGO that works in over 50 countries worldwide The study traces the changing ways that faith has shaped and influenced Tearfund s work over the organisation s 50 year history It shows how Tearfund has consciously grappled with the role of faith in its work and has invested considerable time and energy in developing an intentionally faith based approach t relief and development that in several ways is quite different to the approaches of secular relief and development NGOs The book charts the different perspectives and possibilities that were not taken and the internal discussions about theology development practices and humanitarian standards that took place as Tearfund worked out for itself what it meant to be a faith based relief and development organisation There is a growing academic literature about religion and development as well as increasing interest from development ministries of many Northern governments in understanding the role of religion in development and the specific challenges and benefits involved in working with faith based organisations However there are very few studies of actual faith based organisations and no book length detailed studies showing how such an organisation operates in practice and how it integrates its faith into its work In documenting the story of Tearfund the book provides important insights into the practice and ethos of faith based organisations which will be of interest to other FBOs and to researchers of religion and development
