What I'm On Camino Del Sol:

What I'm on Luis Humberto Valadez, 2009 Luis Valadez is a performance poet and his poems shout to be read aloud. It's then that their language dazzles most brightly. It's then that the emotions bottled up on the page explode beyond words. And there is plenty of emotion in these poems. Frankly autobiographical, they recount the experiences of a Mexican American boy growing up in a tough town near Chicago. Just as in life, the feelings in these poems are often jumbled, sometimes spilling out in a tumble, sometimes coolly recollected. Sometimes the words jump and twitch as if they'd been threatened or attacked. Sometimes they just sit there knowingly on the page, weighted down by the stark reality of it all. Jos Garca put a thirty-five to me; my mother was in the other room. He would have done us both if not for the lust of my fear. This new Mexican American Chicano voice is all at once arresting, bracing, shocking, and refreshing. This is not the poetry you learned in school. It owes as much to hip hop as it does to the canon. But Valadez has paid his academic dues and he certainly knows how to craft a poem. It's just that he does it his way: in an anagram and look and subject to deformation and reconfiguring. It ain't events or blocks that ahm jettisoning through this process; it be layers of meaning, identity, narrative, and ego that gets peeled off. I can only increase my own understanding. Revved Up 4 Murder J. C. Eaton, 2024-02-20 When a corpse is discovered under a car at the local auto restoration garage, Sophie Phee Kimball gears up to investigate a crime that puts a whole new twist on the term body shop. The seniors of Sun City West are celebrating again this time over the news that Wayne from the pinochle club finally has a chance to restore his classic car. Phee goes along for the ride, but her thoughts are on her agency's latest case: a priceless artifact that's missing from the local museum. It's an antique doll supposedly filled with treasure but also carrying a curse for whoever possesses it. Then a dead body is found under Wayne's car, along with signs of foul play, and Phee is coaxed into helping get him off the hook. It's clear to Phee that the victim was killed by sabotaged machinery, but the garage attracts so much foot traffic that narrowing down a list of suspects will be nearly impossible. Harder still will be keeping her mother's gaggle of friends from meddling in the case, especially after they throw a wrench into the works by trying to locate the missing doll. Soon Phee and the whole group are careening toward a head-on collision with a thief, a killer, and a cursed doll, and she can only hope they don't drive her insane or worse, make her the next victim. Praise for the Books of J. C. Eaton: Fun characters, a touch of humor, and a great mystery, the perfect combination for a cozy. Lena Gregory, author of the Bay Island Psychic Mysteries on Ditched 4 Murder: So cleverly written, you won't guess the perpetrators until the very end. Mary Marks, award-winning author of the Quilting Mystery Series on Booked 4 Murder: A thoroughly entertaining series debut with enjoyable yet realistic characters and enough plot twists and dead ends to appeal from beginning to end. Booklist starred review on Booked 4 Murder: Enjoy this laugh-out-loud funny mystery that will make you scream for the authors to get busy on the next one. Suspense Magazine on Molded 4 Murder. Booked 4 Murder As if bookkeeping for a private detective agency didn't give her enough to do Sophie Phee Kimball is once again getting dragged into the drama at her mom's retirement community A new board member wants to get rid of two golf courses and replace them with eco friendly parks and some of the residents are pretty teed off about it On top of that her mother's friend Myrna is being pushed out of the bocce league Myrna is so bad at bocce that when a community member's dead body is discovered on the grounds she assumes it was one of her own errant balls that killed the woman But before she can be taken away in cuffs for being a killer klutz the police find an arrow in the victim's neck It looks like this was no accident Now Phee and her investigator boyfriend Marshall will have to crack the case before the killer takes another swing Directory of Physicians in the United States ,1999 Saddled Up 4 Murder J. C.
