Training For Doctoral Research Interpreter And Translator Trainer:

Training for Doctoral Research J IAN Mason, 2009-01-30 Following the rapid expansion of translation studies as an emergent inter discipline over recent decades demand for doctoral research opportunities is now growing fast in many countries At the same time doctoral training packages of a generic nature have been elaborated and refined at many universities drawing on long traditions of doctoral research in established disciplines A degree of consensus no doubt exists on such matters as the need for rigor method and the generation of new knowledge Beyond that however there are a host of issues specific to translation and interpreting studies that remain under researched and under discussed Contributors to this special issue encourage reflection on a range of issues in ways that foster further debate and collaboration on the development of doctoral studies within the field A number of concrete proposals are offered that could be adapted to local situations in different countries and academic settings While some of the contributions adopt a mainly empirical stance others adopt a broad perspective on training citing examples of widely differing projects Two contributors offer insights from personal experience of doctoral study while another describes the organization of doctoral work within the conceptual framework of a research group All consider training from the angle of student needs and offer concrete suggestions for ensuring that doctoral candidates are equipped with the guidance concepts methods and tools required for success

Research Methodologies in Translation Studies Gabriela Saldanha, Sharon O'Brien, 2014-04-08 As an interdisciplinary area of research translation studies attracts students and scholars with a wide range of backgrounds who then need to face the challenge of accounting for a complex object of enquiry that does not adapt itself well to traditional methods in other fields of investigation This book addresses the needs of such scholars whether they are students doing research at postgraduate level or more experienced researchers who want to familiarize themselves with methods outside their current field of expertise The book promotes a discerning and critical approach to scholarly investigation by providing the reader not only with the know how but also with insights into how new questions can be fruitfully explored through the coherent integration of different methods of research Understanding core principles of reliability validity and ethics is essential for any researcher no matter what methodology they adopt and a whole chapter is therefore devoted to these issues Research Methodologies in Translation Studies is divided into four different chapters according to whether the research focuses on the translation product the process of translation the participants involved or the context in which translation takes place An introductory chapter discusses issues of reliability credibility validity and ethics The impact of our research depends not only on its quality but also on successful dissemination and the final chapter therefore deals with what is also generally the final stage of the research process producing a research report

The Evolving Curriculum in Interpreter and Translator Education David B. Sawyer, Frank Austerlühl, Vanessa Enríquez Raído, 2019-06-15 The Evolving Curriculum in Interpreter and Translator Education Stakeholder perspectives and voices examines forces driving curriculum design implementation and reform in academic programs that prepare interpreters and translators for employment in the public and private sectors The evolution of the translating and interpreting professions and changes in teaching practices in higher education have led to fundamental shifts in how translating and interpreting knowledge skills and abilities are acquired in academic settings Changing conceptualizations of curricula processes of innovation and reform technology refinement of teaching methodologies specific to translating and interpreting and the emergence of collaborative institutional networks are examples of developments shaping curricula Written by noted stakeholders from both employer organizations and academic programs in many regions of the world the timely and useful contributions in this comprehensive international volume describe the impact of such forces on the conceptual foundations and frameworks of interpreter and translator education

Transformation and Empowerment through Education Raqib Chowdhury, 2018-11-19 Transformation and Empowerment through Education challenges the normalisation of Western discourses as the optimal choice for empowering education. The book aims to reconstruct our relationship with education and employs contemporary theories in order to understand some of the most persistent phenomena in contemporary education and its role in our lives. Written by professionals with experience of a wide range of academic and institutional conventions and traditions and from diverse ethnocultural backgrounds, this book effectively presents a global perspective on educational practices both inside and outside the classroom. The range of topics covered includes equity, access, inclusivity, social justice, leadership, and the internationalisation of teaching. This book, based on empirical studies using key methodologies, is ideal for academics and postgraduate researchers interested in critical pedagogy, educational studies, and educational linguistics, as well as educators and policymakers around the world.

Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 2009 New Vistas in Translator and Interpreter Training John Kearns, Irish Translators' and Interpreters' Association, 2006 Translator and Interpreter Education Research Muhammad M. M. Abdel Latif, 2020-10-02 This book provides a detailed introduction and guide to researching translator and interpreter education. Providing an overview of the main research topics, trends, and methods, the book covers the following six areas: training effectiveness, learning and teaching practices, assessment, translation and interpreting processes, translated and interpreted texts, and professionals' experiences and roles. The book focuses on explaining the issues and topics researched in each area and showing how they have been researched. As the first book to provide a comprehensive overview of translator and interpreter education research, it has important implications for developing its areas at the theoretical and practical levels. In addition, it offers an invaluable guide for those interested in researching translator and interpreter education areas and in educating translators and interpreters.

The Translator, 2008 Situated Learning in Translator and Interpreter Training Maria Gonzalez-Davies, Vanessa Enríquez Raído, 2018-10-18 Situated Learning is generally understood as a context-dependent approach to translator and interpreter training under which learners are exposed to real life and/or highly simulated collaborative work environments and tasks both inside and outside the classroom. Ultimately, Situated Learning seeks to enhance learners' capacity to think and act like professionals. This book sets out to gauge the extent to which different factors influence the implementation of Situated Learning models in various teaching and learning contexts. It presents an understanding of Situated Learning that goes beyond previous interpretations of this notion, traditionally dominated by the discussion of pedagogical practices in authentic i.e. real world or semi-authentic professional settings. This wider remit of Situated Learning encompasses previously underrepresented contextual factors pertaining to translation traditions, historical trends, community beliefs and customs, socio-economic constraints, market conditions, institutional practices, budgetary issues, or resource availability. The pedagogical considerations of these key aspects make this book particularly useful for both novice and seasoned teachers of translation and interpreting with an interest in informed practical advice on how to implement the principles of Situated Learning in collaborative teaching and learning environments that seek to promote translators and or interpreters professional competence This book was originally published as a special issue of The Interpreter and Translator Trainer Translation Studies Abstracts/Bibliography of Translation Studies ,2008 Documentation Abstracts ,1998 Fit-For-Market Translator and Interpreter Training in a Digital Age Rita Besznyák,Csilla Szabó,Márta Fischer,2020-05-15 Training institutions offering specialized translation and interpreting programs need to keep up with the rapid development of digitalization and the increasingly sophisticated requirements of the language industry This book addresses digital trends and employability in the market from the aspect of training how have the latest digital trends shaped the language industry and what competencies will translators interpreters and T I trainers need so as to meet current market requirements Four major subjects of high relevance are discussed in 12 chapters 1 collaborative partnership in the field of fit for market practices with a focus on e learning materials 2 competence development in translator and interpreter training 3 the implications of neural machine translation and the increasing significance of post editing practices as well as 4 the role of new technologies and new methods in the work and training of interpreters and translators With an introduction written by Juanjo Arevalillo managing director of Hermes Traducciones and former vice president of the European Union of Associations of Translation Companies the book creates a fresh momentum for researchers academics professionals and trainees to be engaged in a constructive dialogue A Handbook for Translator Trainers Dorothy Kelly,2014-04-23 The community of translator trainers is growing constantly as new courses are set up in diverse contexts throughout the world After a brief overview of current approaches to translator training this book offers practical guidance to sound training practices in different contexts Given the very wide variety of backgrounds translator trainers come from the text aims to be equally of use to language teachers new to translation to professional translators new to teaching or training to recent graduates in translation intending to embark on academic careers in translation studies and to more experienced trainers wishing to reflect on their activity or to train new trainers For that reason no specific prior knowledge or experience of training is taken for granted A systematic approach to curriculum and syllabus design is adopted guiding readers from the writing of learning outcomes or objectives through to the design of teaching and learning activities to the assessment of learning and course evaluation all this applied throughout in detail to the field of translation Chapters contain exercises and activities designed to promote reflection on practice and to help trainers to develop their teaching skills as well as their own course material These activities are suitable both for self learners and for groups on trainer training and staff development courses
