

Improving the quality of education and training in Morocco is a major goal, reflected in a series of educational reforms. The government has enhanced the quality of education by reforming the secondary sector, revising curricula and programmes, increasing the completion of basic education, and reducing teacher-student ratios. Many high schools, including those that were opened previously with high hopes and investment, are in need of an overhaul. The Ministry has initiated a series of reforms, including building and equipping schools, that will greatly improve the quality of education and training. Morocco's current human resources skills and attitudes are becoming more and more in-demand in the
