

THE VERY HUNGRY CATERPILLAR

In the light of the moon a little egg lay on a leaf.

One Sunday morning the warm sun came up and pop! – out of the egg came a tiny and very hungry caterpillar.

He started to look for some food.

On Monday he ate through one apple. But he was still hungry.

On Tuesday he ate through two pears, but he was still hungry.

On Wednesday he ate through three plums, but he was still hungry.

On Thursday he ate through four strawberries, but he was still hungry.

On Friday he ate through five oranges, but he was still hungry.

Storytelling in Early Childhood Teresa Cremin, Rosie Flewitt, Ben Mardell, Joan Swann, 2016-12-08 Storytelling in Early Childhood is a captivating book which explores the multiple dimensions of storytelling and story acting and shows how they enrich language and literacy learning in the early years Foregrounding the power of children s own stories in the early and primary years it provides evidence that storytelling and story acting a pedagogic approach first developed by Vivian Gussin Paley affords rich opportunities to foster learning within a play based and language rich curriculum The book explores a number of themes and topics including the role of imaginary play and its dynamic relationship to narrative how socially situated symbolic actions enrich the emotional cognitive and social development of children how the interrelated practices of storytelling and dramatisation enhance language and literacy learning and contribute to an inclusive classroom culture the challenges practitioners face in aligning their understanding of child literacy and learning with a narrow mandated curriculum which focuses on measurable outcomes Driven by an international approach and based on new empirical studies this volume further advances the field offering new theoretical and practical analyses of storytelling and story acting from complementary disciplinary perspectives This book is a potent and engaging read for anyone intrigued by Paley s storytelling and story acting curriculum as well as those practitioners and students with a vested interest in early years literacy and language learning With contributions from Vivian Gussin Paley Patricia Patsy Cooper Dorothy Faulkner Natalia Kucirkova Gillian Dowley McNamee and Ageliki Nicolopoulou

Literacy in School and Society Elizabetta Zuanelli Sonino, 2013-06-29 The function and notion of literacy may be considered the keystone a filigree principle underlying the educational social and cultural organiza tion of the societies of the twentieth century It is therefore interesting to try to pinpoint the notion and its implications at the tum of the century by focusing the attention of scholars from various disciplines sociolinguistics psychology psycholinguistics and pedagogy on the subject This is the purpose of this volume which originated from an interdisciplinary meeting on trends in and problems of research on early literacy through mother tongues and or second languages held in Venice under the auspices of the University of Venice and in particular of the Seminario di Linguistica e di Didattica della Lingue and the Centro Linguistico Interfacolta and the Municipality of Venice together with UNESCO and AILA A first far reaching question touches on the role assigned to or fulfilled by mass literacy in modern society The concept of literacy considered as a social achievement an essential component in the process of education to be institutionally prompted and controlled fluctuates between two opposite poles A polemic destructive view considers the notion and the educational practices connected with it as a potent instrument of social control a tool for social reproduction and consensus On the other side a plurifunctional constructive view considers the acquisition and maintenance of different languages via educational institutions as a concrete possibility for the defense and maintenance of cultural pluralism and identity be it social ethnic or religious

Spinning the Cosmos Alica-Nana Citron, 2025-05-29 This open access book investigates the epistemological concept of and the knowledge transfer interwoven with the moveable paper wheels found in medieval and early modern books the so called volvelles The earliest known volvelles emerged in the mid thirteenth century and were cut out and installed by the reader often appearing in books dealing with astronomical subjects The brain processes and remembers images more easily than words the so called picture superiority effect especially if the images move making volvelles a useful method to help students of the Quadrivium memorizing the heavenly movements thus the composition of a device embedded within a text promises a comprehensive insight into the didactic concepts of early modern knowledge transfer The Tractatus de Sphaera by Johannes de Sacrobosco 1195 1256 the standard university textbook for astronomy from the thirteenth until the seventeenth century was particularly noted as containing volvelles of different kinds The project The Sphere located at the Max Planck Institute for the History of Science in Berlin has collected a corpus of 359 printed De sphaera editions building a promising basis for examining different volvelles and placing the results in a cultural context These volumes had never been analyzed in detail before nor was there such a large corpus that could provide a quantitative database for such an investigation The results of the book show that a book and knowledge tradition as widespread as that of the Sphaera contained more than one third of volvelles and was used in university teaching in the early modern period For historians this sheds light on a new aspect of movable paper instruments in university didactics and book history in the early modern period
