Dickens and the Dream of Cinema Grahame Smith,2003-11-08 Taking his cue from Walter Benjamin s concept of each epoch dreaming the epoch that is to follow Grahame Smith argues that Dickens novels can be regarded as proto filmic in the detail of their language as well as their larger formal structures This possibility arises from Dickens creative engagement with the city as metropolis as it emerges in the London of the 1830s plus his immersion in the visual entertainments of his day such as the panorama as well as technological advances such as the railway which anticipates cinema in some of its major features The book offers a new way of reading Dickens through the perspective of a form which he knew nothing of while simultaneously suggesting an account of his part in the manifold forces that led to the appearance of film towards the end of the 19th century British Humanitarianism and the Congo Reform Movement, 1896-1913 Dean

Pavlakakis,2016-03-09 The Congo Free State was under the personal rule of King Leopold II of the Belgians from 1885 to 1908 The accolades that attended its founding were soon contested by accusations of brutality oppression and murderous misrule but the controversy by itself proved insufficient to prompt changes Starting in 1896 concerned men and women used public opinion to influence government policy in Britain and the United States to create space for reforming forces in Belgium itself to pry the Congo from Leopold s grasp and implement reforms Examining key factors in the successes and failures of a pivotal movement that aided the colonized people of the Congo and broadened the idea of human rights British Humanitarianism and the Congo Reform Movement provides a valuable update to scholarship on the history of humanitarianism in Africa The Congo Reform movement built on the institutional experience of overseas humanitarianism the energy of evangelical political involvement and innovations in racial imperial and nationalist discourse to create political energy Often portrayed as the efforts of a few key people especially E D Morel this book demonstrates that the movement increasingly manifested itself as an institutionalized and transnational campaign with support from key government officials that ultimately made a material difference to the lives of the people of the Congo
