The story of films is the story of human development. From the very first story that defined the birth of our civilization the Sumerian Epic of Gilgamesh a story of immortality aging and death comes a tale of why we age We are a species of storytellers The stories we tell to each other define who we are However since we are living in a world marked by age apartheid our interaction with people across different generations is becoming more limited As a result the information we gain about older people comes mostly from secondary sources For the general public films remain the most accessible form of information regarding getting older From the early exposure of cartoons to more elaborate dramas our knowledge of what it means to become old relies on our exposure to films This volume provides insight into how accurate these representations are in line with current knowledge that we have about aging and older adults Arguing that films present a simplified view of aging this analysis relies on scientific evidence to explore why and how such stereotypes affect us Stereotypes have the ability of being internalized and becoming prescriptive of our behavior Numerous studies have attempted different ways of understanding the impact films have on aging Theories as seemingly disparate as feminism and disability have contributed to our understanding of how stereotypes influence our aging process This text builds upon this knowledge and provides new insights by applying current gerontological knowledge the science of aging to unpack and analyze the images of aging that films are providing By readdressing this focus on gerontological theories as diverse as biology and psychology the book readdresses an overlooked approach Provinces of Night William
