Epic into Novel Henry Power, 2015-02-19 Epic into Novel looks at Henry Fielding's adaptation of classical epic in the context of what he called the Trade of authoring. Fielding was always keen to stress that his novels were modelled on classical literature. Equally he was fascinated by and wrote at length about the fact that they were objects to be consumed. He recognised that he wrote in an age when an author had to consider himself as one who keeps a public Ordinary at which all persons are welcome for their Money. In describing his work he alludes both to Homeric epic and to contemporary cookery books. This tension in Fielding's work has gone unexplored: a tension between his commitment to a classical tradition and his immersion in a print culture in which books were consumable commodities. This interest in the place of the ancients in a world of consumerism was inherited from the previous generation of satirists. The Scriblerians among them Jonathan Swift, John Gay and Alexander Pope repeatedly suggest in their work that classical values are at odds with modern tastes and appetites. Fielding, who had idolised these writers as a young man, developed many of their satiric routines in his own writing. But Fielding broke from Swift, Gay and Pope in creating a version of epic designed to appeal to modern consumers. Henry Power provides new readings of works by Swift, Gay and Pope and of Fielding's major novels. He examines Fielding's engagement with various Scriblerian themes: primarily the consumption of literature but also the professionalisation of scholarship and the status of the author and shows ultimately that Fielding broke with the Scriblerians in acknowledging and celebrating the influence of the marketplace on his work

Howard Weinbrot and the Precincts of Enlightenment Kevin L. Cope, 2024-05-07 Seeking to honor and extend the critical legacy of Howard Weinbrot, this volume re-examines, rebuilds and upgrades the most prominent pillars of long eighteenth-century scholarship. The collection is divided into four thematic sections beginning with a series of chapters offering fresh analyses of Swift, Dryden, Hogarth and other major authors and artists of the period. In the sections that follow the contributors not only explore biographies of both highly esteemed figures and notorious deviants but also investigate the very concept of Enlightenment as it has evolved from the eighteenth century to today. The final section features chapters that probe the complex interaction of identity, persona and place, traversing the countless locales in which the British and the international eighteenth century emerged. The volume ultimately covers a range of experience that extends from the gallows to the landscape garden and from heroic antiquity to Romantic era France. Juxtaposing the local and particular against the grand and universal, Howard Weinbrot and the Precincts of Enlightenment testifies to the complexity and ongoing significance of eighteenth-century culture

The Language of Fruit Liz Bellamy, 2019-01-25 In The Language of Fruit, Liz Bellamy explores how poets, playwrights and novelists from the Restoration to the Romantic era represented fruit and fruit trees in a period that saw significant changes in cultivation techniques, the expansion of the range of available fruit varieties and the transformation of the mechanisms for their exchange and distribution. Although her principal concern is with the representation of fruit within literary texts and genres she nevertheless grounds her analysis in the consideration of what actually happened in the gardens and orchards of the past As Bellamy progresses through sections devoted to specific literary genres three central characters come to the fore the apple long a symbol of natural abundance simplicity and English integrity the orange associated with trade and exchange until its naturalization as a British resident and the pineapple often figured as a cosseted and exotic child of indulgence epitomizing extravagant luxury She demonstrates how the portrayal of fruits within literary texts was complicated by symbolic associations derived from biblical and classical traditions often identifying fruit with female temptation and sexual desire Looking at seventeenth century poetry Restoration drama eighteenth century georgic and the Romantic novel as well as practical writings on fruit production and husbandry Bellamy shows the ways in which the meanings and inflections that accumulated around different kinds of fruit related to contemporary concepts of gender class and race Examining the intersection of literary tradition and horticultural innovation The Language of Fruit traces how writers from Andrew Marvell to Jane Austen responded to the challenges posed by the evolving social economic and symbolic functions of fruit over the long eighteenth century

Historicizing the Enlightenment, Volume 2 Michael McKeon, 2023-07-14 Enlightenment critics from Dryden through Johnson and Wordsworth conceived the modern view that art and especially literature entails a double reflection a reflection of the world and a reflection on the process by which that reflection is accomplished Instead neoclassicism and Augustanism have been falsely construed as involving a one dimensional imitation of classical texts and an unselfconscious representation of the world In fact these Enlightenment movements adopted an oblique perspective that registers the distance between past tradition and its present reenactment between representation and presence Two modern movements Romanticism and modernism have appropriated as their own these innovations which derive from Enlightenment thought Both of these movements ground their error in a misreading of imitation as understood by Aristotle and his Enlightenment proponents Rightly understood neoclassical imitation constitutively aware of the difference between what it knows and how it knows it is an experimental inquiry that generates a range of prefixes counter mock anti neo that mark formal degrees of its epistemological detachment Romantic ideology has denied the role of the imagination in Enlightenment imitation imposing on the eighteenth century a dichotomous periodization duplication versus imagination the mirror versus the lamp Structuralist ideology has dichotomized narration and description form and content structure and history Poststructuralist ideology has propounded for the novel a contradictory novel tradition realism modernism postmodernism postcolonialism whose stages both constitute a sequence and collapse it each stage claiming the innovation of the stage that precedes it Published by Bucknell University Press Distributed worldwide by Rutgers University Press Samuel Johnson After 300 Years Greg Clingham, Philip Smallwood, 2009-05-28 To mark the tercentenary of Samuel Johnson's birth in 2009 the specially commissioned essays contained here review his scholarly reputation An international team of experts reflects authoritatively on the various dimensions of literary historical critical and ethical life touched by Johnson's extraordinary achievement The volume distinctively casts its net widely and combines consistently innovative thinking on Johnson's historical role with a fresh sense of present criticism Chapters cover subjects as diverse as Johnson's moral philosophy his legal thought his influence on Jane Austen and the question of the Johnson canon The contributors examine the larger theoretical and scholarly contexts in which it is now possible to situate his work and from which it may often be necessary to differentiate it All the contributors have a distinguished record of scholarship in eighteenth century studies Johnson scholarship and cultural history and theory

Arms, and the Man I sing . . . Arvid Løsnes, 2011-05-12 This study referred to as a preface is given this designation because its aim is not to offer an up to date overall assessment Dryden's translation of Virgil's neid but rather to provide a valid basis for such an assessment In this it seeks to provide a comprehensive analysis of relevant areas i e the conditions of expression forming the very basis of the genesis of Dryden's translation and thus a valid understanding of the poetry of R A Brower Alexander Pope The Poetry of Allusion London 1968 p 98 Part One provides a firsthand picture of the background out of which Dryden's translation came into being the tradition of neid translation The evolution of Dryden's theory of translation and his use of textual sources are discussed through a systematic presentation of the various conditions of expression involved as Dryden took upon himself to render Virgil's neid into English poetry Part Two presents the relevant aspects of Dryden's conception of Virgil and essential features of the Virgilian epic with reference to the assessments of modern classical scholars and Dryden's own conceptions in these matters Various analogies historical political and literary are drawn between the respective periods in which Virgil and Dryden lived to reflect the basic similarity in conditions of expression out of which Virgil's neid and Dryden's translation came into being
