Theories Of Lexical Semantics Oxford Linguistics:

Theories of Lexical Semantics Dirk Geeraerts, 2009-11-12 Theories of Lexical Semantics offers a comprehensive overview of the major traditions of word meaning research in linguistics In spite of the growing importance of the lexicon in linguistic theory no overview of the main theoretical trends in lexical semantics is currently available This book fills that gap by charting the evolution of the discipline from the mid nineteenth century to the present day It presents the main ideas the landmark publications and the dominant figures of five traditions historical philological semantics structuralist semantics generativist semantics neostructuralist semantics and cognitive semantics The theoretical and methodological relationship between the approaches is a major point of attention throughout the text going well beyond a mere chronological enumeration the book does not only describe the theoretical currents of lexical semantics but also the undercurrents that have shaped its evolution The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Applied Linguistics Chu-Ren Huang, Zhuo Jing-Schmidt, Barbara Meisterernst, 2019-03-11 The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Applied Linguistics is written for those wanting to acquire comprehensive knowledge of China the diaspora and the Sino sphere communities through Chinese language It examines how Chinese language is used in different contexts and how the use of Chinese language affects culture society expression of self and persuasion of others as well as how neurophysiological aspects of language disorder affect how we function and how the advance of technology changes the way the Chinese language is used and perceived The Handbook concentrates on the cultural societal and communicative characteristics of the Chinese language environment Focusing on language use in action in context and in vivo this book intends to lay empirical grounds for collaboration and synergy among different fields Aspects of Linguistic Variation Daniël Olmen, Tanja Mortelmans, Frank Brisard, 2018-12-03 Linguistic variation is a topic of ongoing interest to the field Its description and its explanations continue to intrigue scholars from many different backgrounds By taking a deliberately broad perspective on the matter covering not only crosslinguistic and diachronic but also intralinguistic and interspeaker variation and examining phenomena ranging from negation over connectives to definite articles in well and lesser known languages the volume furthers our understanding of variation in general The papers offer new insights into among other things the theoretical notion of comparative concepts the social or mental nature of language structure the areal factor in lexical typology and the diachronic implications of semantic maps The collection will thus be of relevance to typologists and historical linguists as well as to people studying variation within the areas of cognitive and functional linguistics Language Contact. Volume 2 Jeroen Darquennes, Joseph C. Salmons, Wim Vandebussche, 2025-04-21 Targeting a full range of students and scholars this volume provides a total of 50 chapters illustrating the linguistic dynamics and the dynamics of inter individual and societal language contact as well as the dynamics of multidisciplinary language contact studies Fueled by a wealth of data from a rich variety of contact situations its geographically balanced case studies are governed by the triangulation between a focus on language structure and change a sincere drive of sociopolitical and academic agency and the confrontation with an everyday reality that can be unkind to and ignorant of those two factors The volume clearly demonstrates the social relevance of our trade in a time burdened with ecolinguistic challenges New Approaches to Contrastive Linguistics Renata Enghels, Bart Defrancq, Marlies

Jansegers, 2020-07-20 The practice of comparing languages has a long tradition characterized by a cyclic pattern of interest Its meeting with corpus linguistics in the 1990s has led to a new sub discipline of corpus based contrastive studies The present volume tackles two main challenges that had not yet been fully addressed in the literature namely an empirical assessment of the nature of the data commonly used in cross linguistic studies e g translation data versus comparable data and the development of advanced methods and statistical techniques suitably adapted to contrastive research settings The papers collected in this volume endeavour to find out what new types of data are most useful for what kind of contrastive questions and which advanced statistical techniques are most suited to deal with the multidimensionality of contrastive research questions Answers to these questions are provided through the contrastive analysis of various language pairs or groups and a wide variety of phenomena situated at almost all linguistic levels In sum this book provides an update on new methodological and theoretical insights in empirical contrastive linguistics and will stimulate further research within this field Cognitive Linguistics - Foundations of Language Ewa Dąbrowska, Dagmar Divjak, 2019-07-08 Cognitive

Semantic differences in translation Lore Vandevoorde ,2020 Although the notion of meaning has always been at the core of translation the invariance of meaning has partly due to practical constraints rarely been challenged in Corpus based Translation Studies In answer to this the aim of this book is to question the invariance of meaning in translated texts if translation scholars agree on the fact that translated language is different from non translated language with respect to a number of grammatical and lexical aspects would it be possible to identify differences between translated and non translated language on the semantic level too More specifically this books tries to formulate an answer to the following three questions i how can semantic differences in translated vs non translated language be investigated in a corpus based study ii are there any differences on the semantic level between translated and non translated language and iii if there are differences on the semantic level can we ascribe them to any of the universal tendencies of translation In this book I establish a way to visually explore semantic similarity on the basis of representations of translated and non translated semantic fields A technique for the comparison of semantic fields of translated and non translated language called SMM based on Helge Dyvik s Semantic Mirrors method is developed yielding statistics based visualizations of semantic fields The SMM is presented via the case of inchoativity in Dutch beginnen to begin By comparing the visualizations of the semantic fields on different levels translated Dutch with French as a source language with English as a source language and non translated Dutch I further explore whether the differences between translated and non translated fields of inchoativity in Dutch can be linked to any of the well known universals of translation The main results of this study are explained on the basis of two cognitively inspired frameworks Halverson s Gravitational Pull Hypothesis and Paradis neurolinguistic theory of bilingualism
