CONCLUSIONS The authors have presented a new method of the determination of the concentration of the monomer in the polymerization of styrene in the presence of the initiator. The method is based on the measurement of the rate of polymerization and the rate of the termination reaction. The method is simple and accurate. It can be used for the determination of the concentration of the monomer in the polymerization of other monomers in the presence of the initiator.

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF MARKETING
An international journal devoted to the advancement of marketing theory and practice. The journal is required reading for all those concerned with the development of marketing thought and action. It is the only journal in the field to publish research in all areas of marketing, and to do so in a format that is both accessible and stimulating. The journal is published quarterly by the International Marketing Association (IMA), a non-profit organization dedicated to the advancement of marketing knowledge and practice. The journal is a member of the International Association of Business Journals (IABJ) and the International Association of Agricultural Librarians and Documentalists (IAALD).

Revised 11/16/2016

Information on the 1997-1998 influenza A virus type B circulation in the community is shown in Table 1. The 1997-1998 season was characterized by a high incidence of influenza A virus type B infection in the community, with a peak in the winter months (December to February). The 1997-1998 season was the most severe in the last 10 years, with a total of 1,100 cases of influenza A virus type B infection in the community.

Abstract Community violence and its consequences threaten the well-being of the African American community. This article reviews the literature on the impact of community violence on the African American community and discusses the role of the community in addressing this problem.

Flowing water provides a constant habitat disturbance to the plants of riparian zones that may otherwise be able to establish better control. Thus, flowing water has a direct effect on the riparian zone and indirectly on the adjacent forest zone.

Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses increased with the number of trials, and the increase was more pronounced for the high condition than for the low condition.

- The 100 countries with the lowest per capita income have had the greatest increase in economic inequality over the past 20 years.
- The 100 countries with the highest per capita income have had the least increase in economic inequality over the past 20 years.
- There is a strong positive correlation between the increase in economic inequality and the increase in per capita income over the past 20 years.
