the progress made in 2009 in scaling up access to selected health sector interventions for HIV prevention treatment and care in low and middle income countries It is the fourth in a series of annual progress reports published since 2006 in collaboration with international and national partners to monitor key components of the health sector response to the HIV epidemic worldwide Towards Universal Access ,2008 The end of 2007 marks an important step in the history of the HIV epidemic According to the WHO UNAIDS and UNICEF report Towards universal access Scaling up priority HIV AIDS interventions in the health sector nearly a million more people 950 000 were receiving treatment with antiretroviral therapy ART in low and middle income countries by year s end bringing the total number of recipients to close to 3 million a more than seven fold increase over four years The WHO UNAIDS 3 by 5 initiative which sought to have 3 million individuals on treatment by 2005 is widely credited with jump starting the global effort to provide widespread ART access to people in need living in low and middle income countries In 2007 that target was achieved a scant two years after the 2005 deadline Not only has the number of people receiving treatment increased dramatically but the pace of scale up has also accelerated The year 2007 also saw gains in access to interventions designed to prevent mother to child transmission PMTCT as well as increased testing and counselling and greater country commitment to male circumcision An increasing number of children are also benefiting from paediatric ART programmes At the end of 2007 an estimated 200 000 children were receiving ART compared to 127 000 in 2006 and 75 000 in 2005 Nevertheless countries are still far from meeting universal access goals An estimated 2.5 million people were newly infected with HIV in 2007 and overall ART coverage still remains low only 31% of people estimated to be in need of treatment in low and middle income countries were receiving it in 2007 Moreover weak health systems and in particular a critical shortage of health care personnel and a lack of long term sustained funding threaten efforts to achieve universal access to HIV prevention treatment and care At the end of 2007 the gap between required and available funding was estimated to be US 8.1 billion To meet universal access targets funding will have to more than quadruple to US 35 billion in 2010 and to US 41 billion in 2015 Publisher description UNAIDS Action Framework ,2009 Business as usual is no longer a viable response to the HIV related risks of men who have sex with men and transgender people Where data exist on HIV in these populations they show that our collective responses are failing far more often than they are reaching scale or succeeding Just as disconcerting in many parts of the world is the fact that few reliable data exist at all UNAIDS Global AIDS Update 2024 UNAIDS,2024-07-22 The report titled The Urgency of Now AIDS at a Crossroads demonstrates the HIV response is at a crossroads success or failure will be determined by which path leaders take The report shows that the decisions leaders make this year will determine whether AIDS is ended as a public health threat by 2030 Taking the wrong path by limiting resourcing or clamping down on human rights would lead the pandemic to continue to grow costing millions more lives and undermining global health security Towards Universal Access UNICEF Staff,Unaid,Who,2008-07
