THE GREENHOUSE EFFECT
The greenhouse effect is the process by which the earth's surface is warmed by the atmosphere. The sun's rays hit the earth's surface and are absorbed by the land and water. The surface then radiates heat back into the atmosphere. The atmosphere then radiates heat back to the earth's surface, warming it. This process is called the greenhouse effect because it is similar to the way a greenhouse works. The sun's rays hit the plants and soil in the greenhouse and are absorbed. The plants and soil then radiate heat back into the greenhouse, warming it. The greenhouse effect is a natural process that is essential for life on earth. Without it, the earth would be too cold to support life.
