Beauty in Disrepair Norma Forte, Celia

Forte,2020-10-22 Norma and Celia Forte's mother was a beautiful woman with stunning blue eyes, intellectual curiosity, and artistic talents, but she was broken, often bruised, and sometimes a monster. She wore many faces. In Beauty in Disrepair, authors and sisters Norma and Celia Forte narrate their memories of a tumultuous childhood, offering perspectives on living with a parent suffering with Dissociative Identity Disorder, formerly known as Multiple Personality Disorder. Through a collection of vignettes and poetry, this memoir provides a visceral account of the residual effects of being raised primarily by a parent who was undiagnosed until their adulthood. The Forte sisters tell how working through these memories was a painful but ultimately rewarding journey. The process of healing is life-long, and they are finally making peace with their lost childhood as adult survivors. Beauty in Disrepair reflects on the girls' childhood as survivors of direct abuse and the residual effects of DID as their mother battled at least twenty-two alter identities. Norma and Celia openly share their story to offer peace to others facing the same experiences and provide a hopeful future for those who have yet to find the beauty they seek that is in disrepair.

Ok, I'm a Christian, Now What? Debbie J. Libbey, 2016-04-28 Becky is a new Christian looking for a home church. A church that will answer her question: What is sin? For the Bible says: All have sinned and come short of the glory of God. And it says to repent and sin no more. How can she sin no more if she doesn't know what sin is? She prays for guidance and is led to a home church. A church she never thought she would end up at. So which church will she choose? The traditional main stream church or this unconventional home church? Matthew 7:13-14 NKJV: 13 Enter by the narrow gate; for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and there are many who go in by it; 14 Because narrow is the gate and difficult is the way which leads to life, and there are few who find it.
