Why Our Schools Need The Arts:

Why Our Schools Need the Arts Jessica Hoffmann Davis, 2008 This inspiring book leads the way to a new kind of advocacy one that stops justifying the arts as useful to learning other subjects and argues instead for the powerful lessons that the arts like no other subjects teach our children Jessica Hoffmann Davis a leading voice in the field of arts education offers a set of principles and tools that will be invaluable to advocates already working hard to make the case and secure a strong place for the arts in education She also reaches out to those who care deeply about education but have yet to consider what the arts uniquely provide This book is for anyone willing to brave a new terrain in which the arts are finally embraced without apology Book Features An accessible overview of the shape and content of education in and across the arts Discussion of the unique features of the arts and the invaluable learning they provide A list of common objections to including the arts in our schools with suggested responses for countering these arguments Guidance for advocates that addresses mistakes of the past and suggests directions for the future Personal narrative interludes that bring to life with humor and style the importance of the topic Nuts and bolts information including a glossary of relevant terms recommended readings and websites

Why Our High Schools Need the Arts Jessica Hoffmann Davis, 2011-12-16 In this follow up to her bestselling book Why Our Schools Need the Arts Jessica Hoffmann Davis addresses the alarming dropout rate in our high schools and presents a thoughtful evidence based argument that increasing arts education in the high school curriculum will keep kids in school Davis shares compelling voices of teachers and their adolescent learners to demonstrate how courses in the arts are relevant and valuable to students who have otherwise become disenfranchised from school This important book points the way toward rescuing the American high school from the inside out by ensuring that all students benefit from the compelling and essential learning opportunities that the arts uniquely provide In an engaging and accessible narrative Why Our High Schools Need the Arts will inform the uninitiated change the minds of doubters and fuel the fight of those already committed to arts related school reform This timely resource Takes key foundational principles presented in Why Our Schools Need the Arts and describes how they work in high schools Presents research that indicates arts learning engages youth and provides them with a reason to stay in school and graduate Provides real life examples with teacher and student voices that school reformers need to hear

Why Our Schools Need the Arts Jessica Hoffmann Davis, 2008 Discourse and Disjuncture between the Arts and Higher Education Jessica Hoffmann Davis, 2016-07-04 This accessible and compelling collection of faculty reflections examines the tensions between the arts and academics and offers interdisciplinary alternatives for higher education With an eye to teacher training these artist scholars share insights models and personal experience that will engage and inspire educators in a range of post secondary settings The authors represent a variety of art forms perspectives and purposes for arts inclusive learning ranging from studio work to classroom teaching to urban settings in which the subject is equity and social justice From the struggles of an arts concentrator at an Ivy League college to the challenge of reconciling the dual identities as artists and arts educators the issues at hand are candid and compelling The examples of discourse ranging from the broad stage of arts advocacy to an individual course or program give testimony to the power and promise of the arts in higher education Developing Literacy and the Arts in Schools Georgina

Barton,2019-07-31 The teaching of the arts and literacy in schools is often at odds with one another The desire for schools to improve results on high stakes testing can lead to a narrow view of literacy rather than one that acknowledges the unique and distinct literacies that exist in other curriculum areas including the arts With methods of communication becoming increasingly complex it will be more and more important for students to be able to utilise all semiotic modes Developing Literacy and the Arts in Schools investigates this key issue in education and offers a solution to the negative relationship between the arts and literacy Drawing on interview data and evidence from diverse classrooms it explores the pedagogies of effective arts practitioners and teachers and how they relate to theoretical frameworks to unpack the key elements of effective practice related to literacy and the arts A model of arts literacies is provided to assist arts and literacy educators in developing a common language that acknowledges and values these distinct arts literacies Themes of multimodality diversity aesthetics and reflection in relation to the arts and literacy are foregrounded throughout This book will be of great value to postgraduate students of Education specialising in arts and literacy education academics teacher educators and classroom and preservice teachers Curriculum and Teaching Dialogue David J. Flinders,Christy M. Moroye,2016-09-01
