

The eye is a complex organ that allows us to see the world around us. It is made up of several parts, each with a specific function. The cornea is the clear, outer layer of the eye that helps to focus light. The iris is the colored part of the eye that controls the size of the pupil. The lens is a clear, biconvex structure that focuses light on the retina. The vitreous body is a clear, gel-like substance that fills the space between the lens and the retina. The retina is the light-sensitive layer at the back of the eye that converts light into electrical signals. The optic nerve is the bundle of nerve fibers that carries these signals to the brain.
