Women As Producers And Consumers Of Tourism In Developing Regions:

Women as Producers and Consumers of Tourism in Developing Regions Yorghos Apostolopoulos, Sevil F. Sönmez, Dallen J. Timothy, 2001-04-30 Tourism has become the world's largest industry according to the World Tourism Organization no surprise when one considers that it incorporates the world's oldest profession In some developing regions such as the Caribbean or the South Pacific tourism is the primary sector in which significant economic growth takes place In other regions including areas of Latin America Africa the Middle East and formerly communist eastern Europe tourism is just beginning to take off In all of these areas tourism's impact has been decidedly mixed Nowhere is this more visible than in the context of women's roles in tourism The contributors demonstrate the many ways in which gender determines the roles they play as both tourists and providers of tourism as product and service A valuable contribution to tourism studies women's studies and the literature of economic development The premises of this unique collection of research are that women's roles in tourism are gendered just as are their other roles in gendered societies that tourism affects women differently than it affects men and that women themselves are affected in different ways by tourism depending on such factors as race region and class leisured consumer vs working producer or guest vs host The contributors cover theoretical perspectives including those provided by feminists and economic development analysts women's roles in tourism in the mature industries of the Caribbean Southeast Asia and the South Pacific women's roles in the less developed tourist destinations of the Middle East Latin America Africa and eastern Europe and implications for the future of economic development policy and of gender relations in tourism

Tourism and Political Boundaries Dallen J. Timothy, 2002-09-11 In light of today s political transformations and processes of globalisation this book provides a systematic examination of the relationships between boundaries and tourism Responsible Tourism David Leslie, 2012 Tourism is one of the world's biggest industries. Responsible tourism is concerned with the effects of tourism on people, ecology and communities and seeks to ameliorate these impacts by providing tourism which benefits host communities, improves working conditions, involves the local community, promotes cultural heritage and benefits the environment. This book discusses responsible tourism as a whole, including the politics, policy and planning behind it and the major subject sub-topics such as poverty reduction, the environment, transport, governance, wildlife, tours and heritage. It is Current Issues in Asian Tourism Chris Cooper, C. Michael Hall, 2020-06-09 This comprehensive volume was put together in response to the growing amount of research on tourism in Asia and an increasing number of authors from Asian countries. It concentrates on two aspects of Asian Tourism: first, the Asian tourists themselves and second, economic development and tourism in the Asian region. The first part of the collection focuses on three areas: the motivations of different types of Asian tourist, the characteristics and behaviour of particular Asian tourist segments and finally an analysis of specific research issues. The second part of the book then goes on to explore the governance and organisation of tourism in the Asian region and the nature of Asian growth and competitiveness as it relates to tourism. The articles in this book were originally published in the journal Current Issues in Tourism. New Sociologies of Sex Work Kate Hardy, Sarah Kingston, 2016-05-06 Sex work studies have seen an expansion in publications over the past decade, drawing together disciplines from across the social sciences, namely sociology, criminology and social policy. There has, however, been a tendency for research and writing to focus on the more obvious aspect of the sex industry: the visible elements of female street prostitution and those features which attract media attention, such as the criminalised aspects of the sex trade. The sex industry is diverse in terms of its organisation, presentation, participants and how it is located in the broader context of globalisation and regulation; there is a need for publications which demonstrate this breadth. This book makes an outstanding contribution to the sociology of sex work through advancing theoretical, policy, methodological and empirical ideas, as each chapter pushes the boundaries of a specific area by offering new and critical research as well as commentary. Mountaineering Tourism Ghazali Musa, James Higham, Anna Thompson-Carr, 2015-06-05 In May 1993 the British Mountaineering Council met to discuss the future of high altitude tourism. Of concern to attendees were reports of queues on Everest and reference was made to mountaineer Peter Boardman calling Everest an amphitheatre of the ego. Issues raised included environmental and social responsibility and regulations to minimize impacts. In the years that have followed there has been a surge of interest in climbing Everest, with one day in 2012 seeing 234 climbers reach the summit. Participation in mountaineering tourism has surely escalated beyond the imagination of those who attended the meeting 20 years ago. This book provides a critical and comprehensive analysis of all pertinent aspects and issues related to the development and the management of the growth area of mountaineering tourism. By doing so it explores the meaning of adventure and special reference to mountain-based adventure, the delivering of adventure.

experience and adventure learning and education It further introduces examples of settings alpine environments where a general management framework could be applied as a baseline approach in mountaineering tourism development Along with this general management framework the book draws evidence from case studies derived from various mountaineering tourism development contexts worldwide to highlight the diversity and uniqueness of management approaches policies and practices Written by leading academics from a range of disciplinary backgrounds this insightful book will provide students researchers and academics with a better understanding of the unique aspects of tourism management and development of this growing form of adventure tourism across the world
