Pachakutik Marc Becker, 2010-12-16 This authoritative book provides a deeply informed overview of one of the most dynamic social movements in Latin America Focusing on contemporary Indigenous movements in Ecuador leading scholar Marc Becker traces the growing influence of the Confederation of Indigenous Nationalities of Ecuador CONAIE which in 1990 led a powerful uprising that dramatically placed a struggle for Indigenous rights at the center of public consciousness Activists began to refer to this uprising as a pachakutik a Kichwa word that means change rebirth and transformation both in the sense of a return in time and the coming of a new era Five years later proponents launched a new political movement called Pachakutik to compete for elected office In 2006 Ecuadorians elected Rafael Correa who many saw as emblematic of the new Latin American left to the presidency of the country Even though CONAIE Pachakutik and Correa shared similar concerns for social justice they soon came into conflict with each other Becker examines the competing strategies and philosophies that emerge when social movements and political parties embrace comparable visions but follow different paths to realize their objectives In exploring the multiple and conflictive strategies that Indigenous movements have followed over the past twenty years he definitively documents the recent history and charts the trajectory of one of the Americas most powerful and best organized social movements

Oil, Contact, and Conservation in the Amazon Judith Kimerling, 2013 Texaco s discovery of commercially valuable oil in the Amazon Rainforest in Ecuador ignited an oil rush that made the conquest of Amazonia a national policy imperative Texaco now Chevron Ecuador and missionaries from the Summer Institute of Linguistics carried out a campaign to contact and pacify Indigenous Huaorani Waorani who lived in areas slated for oil development Chevron s operations also caused massive environmental damage which led to the ongoing and increasingly complex litigation now known as the Chevron Ecuador Litigation This Article begins with a brief review of events leading to the litigation and an analysis of petroleum policy Amazon and indigenous lands rights policy and environmental protection policy in Ecuador A discussion of the litigation in the United States Ecuador and the Hague follows Recent developments in the litigation are shifting much of the focus of the legal and political contest from allegations about Chevron s misconduct to allegations of misconduct by the lawyers and activists who manage the litigation in Ecuador and have eclipsed the situation on the ground where environmental conditions continue to deteriorate and peoples rights are still being violated The Article then examines the situation of the Huaorani who are struggling to survive and protect what remains of their ancestral territory in Yasuni National Park and the Tagaeri Taromenane Intangible Zone It includes a discussion of the gap between promises in the law and the reality on the ground and ways in which conservation bureaucracies and NGOs are also violating the rights the Huaorani and posing new threats to Huaorani territory and self determination

Oil Sparks in the Amazon Patricia I. Vasquez, 2014-02-01 For decades studies of oil related conflicts have focused on the effects of natural resource mismanagement resulting in great economic booms and busts or violence as rebels fight ruling governments over their regions hydrocarbon resources In Oil Sparks in the Amazon Patricia I Vasquez writes that while oil busts and civil wars are common the tension over oil in the Amazon has played out differently in a way inextricable from the region itself Oil disputes in the Amazon primarily involve local indigenous populations These groups social and cultural identities differ from the rest of the population and the diverse disputes over land displacement water contamination jobs and wealth distribution reflect those differences Vasquez spent fifteen years traveling to the oilproducing regions of Latin America conducting hundreds of interviews with the stakeholders in local conflicts She analyzes fifty five social and environmental clashes related to oil and gas extraction in the Andean countries Peru Ecuador and Colombia She also examines what triggers local hydrocarbons disputes and offers policy recommendations to resolve or prevent them Vasquez argues that each case should be analyzed with attention to its specific sociopolitical and economic context She shows how the key to preventing disputes that lead to local conflicts is to address structural flaws such as poor governance and inadequate legal systems and nonstructural flaws such as stakeholders attitudes and behavior at the outset Doing this will require more than strong political commitments to ensure the equitable distribution of oil and gas revenues It will require attention to the local values and culture as well
