African Research & Documentation, 2013 What drives input subsidy policy reform? Resnick, Danielle, Mason, Nicole, M., 2016-11-24 When and why do suboptimal agricultural policies persist despite technical evidence highlighting alternatives And what explains episodes of reform after prolonged periods of policy inertia This paper addresses these questions by applying the Kaleidoscope Model for agricultural and food security policy change to the specific case of agricultural input policy in Zambia Since 2002 the Farmer Input Support Program formerly the Fertilizer Support Program has been a cornerstone of Zambia's agricultural policy Over the years however many researchers have highlighted weaknesses in the program and proposed other options Based on semistructured interviews with key stakeholders and intensive process tracing using media donor parliamentary and research reports this paper examines how the program initially began in 2002 and during subsequent periods of reform in 2009 and 2015 Based on the findings here periods of reform for input support programs are most likely when there is a confluence of multiple factors These include the emergence of a window of opportunity in the form of either a focusing event for example a food crisis or an institutional shift for example a new president or new ruling party that coincides with broad stakeholder support for empirically grounded alternatives available material resources and sustained commitment from politically important policy makers Improving household consumption and expenditure surveys' food consumption metrics Fiedler, John L., Mwangi, Dena M., 2016-11-18 As the nature of global malnutrition changes there is a growing need and increasing urgency for more and better information about food consumption and dietary patterns The past two decades have seen a dramatic increase in the number availability and analysis of the food consumption data collected in a variety of multipurpose household surveys referred to collectively as household consumption and expenditure surveys HCESs These surveys are heterogeneous and their quality varies substantially by country Still they share some common shortcomings in their measurement of food consumption nutrient intakes and nutrition status that undermine their relevance and reliability for purposes of designing and implementing food policies and programs This review crafts a strategic approach to the unfinished global agenda of improving HCESs collection of food consumption data Starting with the priority studies recommended by a 100 country HCES review Smith Dupriez and Troubat 2014 it focuses on a strategic subset of those studies that deal most directly and exclusively with the measurement of food and that are of fundamental importance to all HCES stakeholders in low and middle income countries Drawing from the literature this study provides a more detailed more circumspect justification as to why these particular studies are needed while identifying key hypotheses explaining why these studies are of growing urgency and demonstrating why now is a propitious time for undertaking them The review also identifies important study design considerations while pointing out potential challenges to successful implementation stemming from technical capacity economic administrative and political considerations Six key studies are rank ordered from a global perspective as follows taking into account 1 the likely shared consensus that a topic is an important source of measurement error in estimating consumption 2 the perceived urgency of the need for addressing a particular source of measurement error 3 the perceived likelihood of success that is that the efforts will improve the accuracy of measurement 4 whether or not the study entails modifying the questionnaire 5 the ease with which a study may begin and 6 the extent to which the study is independent of necessary negotiations with existing HCES stakeholders because of the types of changes it is likely to entail in either the questionnaire or the way the data have traditionally been processed International Labour Review, 2015 Transformation of NAOT Tanzania. Ofisi ya Taifa ya Ukaguzi, Carl Åke Gerdén, 2014 Braby's Commercial Directory of Southern Africa, 1994 Unasyilva, 2012 Art on Paper, 2005 Tribing and Untribing the Archive Carolyn Hamilton, Nessa Leibhammer, 2016 These volumes track how the domain of the tribal and traditional was marked out and came to be sharply distinguished from modernity how it was denied a changing history and an archive and was endowed instead with a timeless culture These volumes also offer strategies for engaging with the materials differently from the interventions effected in contemporary artworks to the inserting of nameless timeless objects of material culture into histories of individualized and politicized experience Publisher's description
