Tourism Sustainability Development Globalisation Tourism:

Tourism and Sustainability Martin Mowforth, Ian Munt, 2003-12-08 Tourism and Sustainability explores and challenges the notions of development sustainability globalisation and power and their relationship to contemporary tourism in the third world

Tourism and Sustainability Martin Mowforth, Ian Munt, 2008-09-22 If unequal opportunities are large within many countries they are truly staggering on a global scale so concludes the World Bank's 2006 World Development Report. It is a global unevenness within which the barriers to migration of Third World migrants to wealthy first world nations go ever higher whilst the barriers to travel in the reverse direction are all but extinct. So how exactly can tourism contribute to narrowing this glaring inequality and gap between the rich and the poor? Are ever expanding tourism markets and the new responsible forms of tourism in particular a smoke-free socio-culturally sensitive form of human industrialisation? Is alternative tourism really a credible lever for lifting poverty-stricken countries out of the mire of global inequality, setting them on the right track to development and making poverty history? Tourism and Sustainability critically explores and challenges what have emerged as the most significant universal geopolitical norms of the last half century: development, globalization and sustainability. And through the lens of new forms of tourism, it demonstrates how we can better understand and get to grips with the rapidly changing new global order. This third edition has been extensively updated and includes new material on poverty reduction, livelihoods and pro-poor tourism, new forms of tourism in cities, continuing growth of the fair trade movement, tourism's contribution to climate change, volunteer and gap tourism, affect of disasters on new tourism. Drawing on a range of examples from across the Third World, Tourism and Sustainability illustrates the social, economic and environmental conditions for the growth of new tourism. The book is original in its assessment of tourism through the lens of power: who holds it, how it is used and who benefits from the exercise of power in the tourism industry. Additionally, the analysis is an interdisciplinary one and the book will therefore be useful to students of Human Geography, Environmental Sciences and Studies, Politics, Development Studies, Anthropology and Business Studies as well as Tourism itself.

Sustainable Tourism Rob Harris, Peter Williams, Tony Griffin, 2012-05-16 Sustainable Tourism is vital reading for anyone seeking to understand the complexities associated with sustainable tourism development and how government and industry have responded to the challenges the concept poses. The major areas addressed in this edited volume are perspectives and issues associated with the concept of sustainable tourism development, accreditation, education and interpretation, including specific examples such as Green Globe 21, the European Blue Flag Campaign and the WWF's PAN Parks Programme. sustainable tourism case studies of tourist destination regions, natural areas and tourism enterprises drawn from Africa, Australia, the South Pacific, North America, South-east Asia and the Caribbean. An impressive international editorial team has combined to present in this text not only a variety of perspectives on sustainable tourism development but also significant insights into barriers, challenges and current industry and government responses to it in various parts of the globe.

Sustainable Tourism will be a welcome addition to the libraries of tourism industry professionals individuals involved in the management of natural areas tourism policy makers tourism academics and students with an interest in the future sustainability of tourism and the industry that supports it

Gender and Tourism Sustainability Claudia Eger, Ana María Munar, Cathy H.C. Hsu, 2023-03-21 This book examines the relationship between gender and sustainability in tourism Whilst an extensive body of work exists in the areas of gender and sustainability these two fields of knowledge are seldom combined to examine tourism phenomena When we look at the evolution of tourism we see that sustainability has become an essential element in educational programmes policy making and strategic considerations for organisations and destinations Whilst the beginnings of tourism sustainability were challenging presently its relevance is seldom questioned However this situation is not the case with gender research Although gender theorising and research have existed for over a century and a rich legacy of knowledge exists on this topic meaningful and respectful engagement with this line of scholarship is thus far peripheral in tourism studies The aim of this book is to reflect on and rethink the intersection of gender and tourism sustainability through the lens of gender theory and feminist epistemology to stay with the trouble and devise pathways for sustainability gender knowledge This book will be of great interest to students researchers and academics in tourism gender and sustainability as well as tourism management The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Sustainable Tourism

Reworking Tourism Jenny Cave, Dianne Dredge, 2020-07-29 There is a growing backlash against extractive and exploitative forms of tourism that have unleashed what some argue as unacceptable levels of change on local communities and environments Examples include the rise of overtourism the environmental impacts of the cruise sector and collaborative economy platforms that have contributed to concerns over housing affordability and availability Anti tourism activism is on the rise and the need to rethink the economic political and social organisation of tourism in a global world has never been more apparent It is increasingly clear that we need to rework the values underpinning tourism and visitor economies and move the focus from its traditional emphasis on profit jobs and growth towards new models of economic and social exchange This book gives voice to a growing movement of scholars activists and business leaders who acknowledge that we need to reinvent relationships between tourism production and consumption and between labour capital and resources In the Global North this exploration of alternative economic and political relationships in tourism has tended to be located at the margins of discussion The Global South has much to teach the Global North about alternative economic models different kinds of exchange new relationships between labour capital and resources and resilience Drawing from case studies in both the North and the South this edited collection explores how some are reworking tourism reshaping the economies of tourism and in the process how tourism can deliver social and economic wellbeing in a changing world Reworking Tourism will be of interest to scholars of tourism and development as well as tourism and economics The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Planning Development
