Production-oriented and Comprehension-based Grammar Teaching in the Foreign Language Classroom Anna Mystkowska-Wiertelak, Mirosław Pawlak, 2012-03-02 The book addresses one of the key controversies in teaching foreign language grammar which is the utility of production oriented instruction as exemplified in the PPP sequence and comprehension based teaching as implemented in interpretation tasks and processing instruction It provides a thorough overview of issues related to learning and teaching grammar with a particular focus on input oriented approaches and reports the findings of four studies which sought to compare their effects with instruction based on different forms of output practice The findings serve as a basis for guidelines on how the two options can be successfully combined in the classroom

A History of Early Vedānta Philosophy Hajime Nakamura, 1983-01-01 The history of the Vedanta school is well known since the time of sankara but its prehistory before sankara is quite obscure However there is a period of a thousand years between the compilation of the major Upanisads of sankara without loss of the tradition of the upanisads there appeared many philosophers and dogmaticians although their thoughts are not clearly known In a history of early vedanta Philosophy the author made clear the details of the pre sankara vedanta philosophy utilizing not only sanskrit materials but also Pali prakrit as well as Tibetan and Chinese sources In this respect this epoch making work was awarded the imperial prize by the Japan Academy

Time to Write John Sylvester Lofty, 2015-02-10 Analyzes interviews with students teachers and administrators to develop a new set of literacies essential for student success in the digital age To read John s work is to take on the role of a patient listener A book like a piece of music is scored for time and I feel Time to Write is scored adagio I believe that Time to Write can be read as a critique of the time chopping approach to education and an argument for presence for being fully open to experience for being there To do good work we must enter something like island time or what John calls existential time or what is sometimes called flow when we lose at least temporarily a sense of clock time from the Foreword by Thomas Newkirk

Twenty five years ago John Sylvester Lofty studied the influence of cultural time values on students resistance to writing instruction in an isolated Maine fishing community For the new edition of Time to Write Lofty returned to the island to consider how social and educational developments in the intervening years may have affected both local culture and attitudes toward education Lofty discovered how the island time values that previously informed students literacy learning have been transformed by outside influences including technology social media and the influx of new residents from urban areas Building on the ethnographic findings of the original study the new edition analyzes the current conflict between the digital age time values of constant connections and instant communication and those of school based literacy Lofty examines the new literacies now essential for students in a technologically connected world both those who aspire to continue the traditional island work of lobster fishing and for the many who now choose to pursue other careers and attend college on the mainland
