Traumatic Stress In South Africa:

Traumatic Stress in South Africa Debbie Kaminer, Gillian Eagle, 2010-10-01 Traumatic Stress in South Africa deals with the topic of traumatic stress from a number of angles Traumatic stress and posttraumatic stress more particularly has gained international prominence as a condition or disorder that affects people across the globe in the wake of exposure to extreme life events be these collective or individual Given the history of political violence in South Africa extremely high levels of violence against women and children and the prevalence of violent crime South Africa has the unfortunate distinction of being considered a real life laboratory in which to study traumatic stress Taking both a historical and contemporary perspective the book covers the extent of and manner in which traumatic stress manifests including the way in which exposure to such extremely threatening events impacts on people's meaning and belief systems Therapeutic and community strategies for addressing and healing the effects of trauma exposure are comprehensively covered as well as the particular needs of traumatised children and adolescents Illustrative case material is used to render ideas accessible and engaging The book also provides a comprehensive and up to date overview of theory and practice in the field of traumatic stress studies incorporating both international and South African specific findings The particular value of the text lies in the integration of global and local material and attention to context related challenges such as how trauma presentation and intervention is coloured by cultural systems and class disparities The book highlights both psychological and sociopolitical dimensions of traumatic stress

Traumatic Stress in South Africa Debra Kaminer, Gillian Eagle, 2010 Traumatic stress and post traumatic stress more particularly has gained international prominence as a condition or disorder that affects people across the globe in the wake of exposure to extreme life events be these collective or individual Given the history of political violence in South Africa extremely high levels of violence against women and children and the prevalence of violent crime South Africa has the unfortunate distinction of being considered a real life laboratory in which to study traumatic stress Taking both a historical and contemporary perspective the title covers the extent of and manner in which traumatic stress manifests including the way in which exposure to such extremely threatening events impacts on people's meaning and belief systems Therapeutic and community strategies for addressing and healing the effects of trauma exposure are comprehensively covered as well as the particular needs of traumatised children and adolescents Illustrative case material is used to render ideas accessible and engaging Traumatic stress in South Africa provides a comprehensive and up to date overview of theory and practice in the field of traumatic stress studies incorporating both international and South African specific findings The particular value of the text lies in the integration of global and local material and attention to context related challenges such as how trauma presentation and intervention is coloured by cultural systems and class disparities The text would be of particular interest to scholars and practitioners working with traumatic stress in developing countries or in settings in which assessment and intervention resources are limited The book highlights both psychological and sociopolitical dimensions of traumatic stress and emphasises insights derived from working in the South African context that have potential relevance for shaping the direction of traumatic stress studies Bookseller's website Trauma, Memory, and Narrative in the Contemporary South African Novel, 2012-01-01 The contributions to this volume probe the complex relationship of trauma memory and narrative By looking at the South African situation through the lens of trauma they make clear how the psychic deformations and injuries left behind by racism and colonialism cannot be mended by material reparation or by simply reversing economic and political power structures Western trauma theories as developed by scholars such as Caruth van der Kolk Herman and others are insufficient for analysing the more complex situation in a postcolony such as South Africa This is because Western trauma concepts focus on the individual traumatized by a single identifiable event that causes PTSD Post Traumatic Stress Disorder What we need is an understanding of trauma that sees it not only as a result of an identifiable event but also as the consequence of an historical condition in the case of South Africa that of colonialism and more specifically of apartheid For most black and coloured South Africans the structural violence of apartheid's laws were the existential condition under which they had to exist The living conditions in the townships pass laws relocation and racial segregation affected great parts of the South African population and were responsible for the collective traumatization of several generations This trauma however is not an unclaimed and unclaimable experience Postcolonial thinkers who have been reflecting on the experience of violence and trauma in a colonial context writing from within a Fanonian tradition have on the contrary believed in the importance of reclaiming the past and of transcending mechanisms of victimization and resentment so typical of traumatized consciousnesses Narration and the novel have a decisive role to play here

International Handbook of Traumatic Stress Syndromes John P. Wilson, Beverley Raphael, 2013-06-29 Over 100 researchers from 16 countries contribute to the first comprehensive handbook on post traumatic stress disorder Eight major sections present information on assessment measurement and research protocols for trauma related to war veterans victims of torture children and the aged Clinicians and researchers will find it an indispensable reference touching on such disciplines and psychiatry psychology social work counseling sociology neurophysiology and political science

Traumatic Storytelling and Memory in Post-Apartheid South Africa Christopher J. Colvin, 2018-12-14 This book explores the practice of traumatic storytelling that emerged out of the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission and came to play a key role in the lives of the members of the Khulumani Support Group for victims of apartheid era political violence Group members found traumatic storytelling both frustrating and yet also an important form of memory work that shaped how they saw themselves in the post apartheid era Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork the author examines how traumatic storytelling functioned not only as a kind of psychological healing and national political theatre but also as a potent form of social relation economic exchange political activism and expressive practice With emphasis on the personal social and political significance of the act of traumatic storytelling this volume asks why members of Khulumani despite their many disappointments continued to engage intensively in storying their experiences for themselves and others Examining what powers storytelling held for both group members and their witnesses and considering the ways in which storytelling enabled new senses of self and new understandings of what was possible in the years after the end of apartheid this book considers what we might learn more broadly from the experiences of Khulumani about the possibilities and limits of traumatic memory making as an instrument of personal social and political repair As such it will appeal to scholars of sociology anthropology and criminology with interest in justice and post conflict societies

Re-Authoring Life Narratives After Trauma: A Holistic Narrative Model of Care Charles B. Manda,2019-12-12

Re authoring Life Narratives after Trauma is an interdisciplinary specialist resource for traumatic stress researchers practitioners and frontline workers who focus their research and work on communities from diverse religious backgrounds that are confronted with trauma death illness and other existential crises This book aims to argue that the biopsychosocial approach is limited in scope when it comes to reaching a holistic model of assessing and treating individuals and communities that are exposed to trauma The holistic model must integrate an understanding of and respect for the many forms of religion and spirituality that clients might have Pargament 2011 It will not only bring a spiritual perspective into the psychotherapeutic dialogue but it will also assist in dealing with the different demands in pastoral ministry as related to clinical and post traumatic settings The book makes several contributions to scholarship in the disciplines of although not limited to traumatic stress studies pastoral care and counselling psychology and psychiatry Firstly the book brings spirituality into the psychotherapeutic dialogue traditionally religious and spiritual topics have not been a welcome part of the psychotherapeutic dialogue Secondly it underscores the significance of documenting literary narratives as a means of healing trauma writing about our traumas enables us to express things that cannot be conveyed in words and to bring to light what has been suppressed and imagine new possibilities of living meaningfully in a changed world Thirdly it proposes an extension to the five stage model of trauma and recovery coined by Judith Herman Substance Dependency, PTSD and Traumatic Incident Reduction (TIR) in South Africa: A Social Work Perspective Elca Erlank, 2013-01-01 This article briefly reflects the extent to which substance dependency and traumatic events which may lead to a diagnosis of a post traumatic stress disorder are becoming a feature of life all over South Africa Many social workers are familiar with current evidence based approaches and are skilled at adapting them to local cultural and contextual conditions Exploring and continuing learning various evidence based approaches to render more effective services are an important aim of social work practice Metapsychology and Traumatic Incident Reduction TIR an Applied Metapsychology technique are introduced to challenge social workers to render more integrated and effective services The prevalence and comorbidity of substance dependency and PTSD Looking at statistics about substance dependency as well as the high tendency of being a victim of trauma in South Africa is it evident that social workers are confronted and challenged on a daily basis to improve their knowledge and skills in this regard In South Africa drug consumption is twice the world norm CDA 2011 and 15% of South Africa s population has a drug problem CDA 2011 Over 30% of the South African population have an alcohol problem or are at risk of having one and alcohol affects 17 5 million of South Africans Studies show that people who start drinking before the age of 15 are four times more likely to become alcoholics than people starting to drink later in their life The recently released United Nations World Drug Report had named South Africa as one of the drug capitals of the world When it comes to the abuse of alcohol and usage of dagga this country is rated to be one of the top ten narcotics and alcohol abusers in the world Addiction Drug Alcohol Statistics S A 2012 About the Author Elca Erlank Ph D became a TIR trainer in 2012 She has trained with both Gerald French and Yvonne Retief Elca is a social worker in South Africa with 22 years experience in various related fields of social work services She had specialized in the field of substance dependence and received her doctorate degree in 2003 From the Metapsychology Monographs Series at www.TIRBook.com
