The Last Magazine Michael Hastings, 2015-05-12 The funniest most savage takedown of the American news media since Fear and Loathing On the Campaign Trail '72 The Washington Post Michael Hastings untimely death at the age of thirty three rocked the journalism community But the New York Times bestselling author of The Operators left behind an unexpected legacy a wickedly funny novel based on Hastings s own journalistic experiences in the mid 2000s Discovered in his files the novel features a wet behind the ears intern named Michael M Hastings who must choose between his career and the truth A searing portrait of print journalism s last glory days The Last Magazine earned Hastings comparisons to Evelyn Waugh and Hunter S Thompson and stands as a testament to one of America s most treasured reporters Dreaming Down the Track William Lempert, 2015-06-03 What can Aboriginal filmmaking reveal about Indigenous presence and futures The product of years of embedded fieldwork within Indigenous film crews in Northwestern Australia Dreaming Down the Track delves deeply into Aboriginal cinema as a transformative community process It follows the social lives of projects throughout their production cycles from planning and editing to screening broadcasting and after images Across its narrative sweep this ethnography engages the film career of Kukatja elder Mark Moora to demonstrate the impact of filmmaking on how Aboriginal futures are collectively imagined and called forth William Lempert highlights a series of awakenings through which Moora ultimately came to view cinema as a process for catalyzing his family s return to their home country of Mangkayi This biographical media journey paints an intimate portrait of the inspiring possibilities and sobering limitations of Indigenous envisioning within settler states Lempert traces how Moora s life and films convey a multiplicity of Aboriginal experiences across time and space from colonial contact to contemporary life in communities like Balgo including the continued governmental attempts to undermine them Amid ongoing negotiations to establish the first treaties between Indigenous nations and Australian states Dreaming Down the Track illustrates what is at stake in how Aboriginal State relations are represented and understood both within communities and for the broader public Lempert stays true to Moora's insight that film can preserve community stories for generations to come toward the aim of enacting sovereign futures

Private Security Companies during the Iraq War Scott Fitzsimmons, 2015-07-16 This book explores the use of deadly force by private security companies during the Iraq War. The work focuses on and compares the activities of the US companies Blackwater and DynCorp. Despite sharing several important characteristics such as working for the same client the US State Department during the same time period, the employees of Blackwater fired their weapons far more often and killed and seriously injured far more people in Iraq than their counterparts in DynCorp. In order to explain this disparity, the book undertakes the most comprehensive analysis ever attempted on the use of violence by the employees of these firms. Based on extensive empirical research, it offers a credible explanation for this difference. Blackwater maintained a relatively bellicose military culture that placed strong emphasis on norms encouraging its personnel to exercise personal initiative, proactive use of force, and an exclusive approach to security, which together motivated its personnel to use violence quite freely against anyone they suspected of posing a threat. Specifically, Blackwater's military culture motivated its personnel to fire upon suspected threats more quickly, at greater distances, and with a greater quantity of bullets, and to more readily abandon the people they shot at when compared to DynCorp's personnel, who maintained a military culture that encouraged far less violent behaviour. Utilizing the Private Security Company Violent Incident Dataset (PSCVID) created by the author in 2012, the book draws upon data on hundreds of violent incidents involving private security personnel in Iraq to identify trends in the behaviour exhibited by the employees of different firms. Based on this rich and original empirical data, the book provides the definitive study of contemporary private security personnel in the Iraq War. This book will be of much interest to students of the Iraq War, Private Security Companies, Military Studies, War and Conflict Studies, and IR in general.
