Translation Goes To The Movies:

Translation goes to the Movies Michael Cronin, 2008-09-24 This highly accessible introduction to translation theory written by a leading author in the field uses the genre of film to bring the main themes in translation to life Through analyzing films as diverse as the Marx Brothers A Night at the Opera The Star Wars Trilogies and Lost in Translation the reader is encouraged to think about both issues and problems of translation as they are played out on the screen and issues of filmic representation through examining the translation dimension of specific films In highlighting how translation has featured in both mainstream commercial and arthouse films over the years Cronin shows how translation has been a concern of filmmakers dealing with questions of culture identity conflict and representation This book is a lively and accessible text for translation theory courses and offers a new and largely unexplored approach to topics of identity and representation on screen Translation Goes to the Movies will be of interest to those on translation studies and film studies courses

Handbook of Translation Studies Yves Gambier, Luc van Doorslaer, 2011-12-21 As a meaningful manifestation of how institutionalized the discipline has become the new Handbook of Translation Studies is most welcome It joins the other signs of maturation such as Summer Schools the development of academic curricula historical surveys journals book series textbooks terminologies bibliographies and encyclopedias The HTS aims at disseminating knowledge about translation and interpreting and providing easy access to a large range of topics traditions and methods to a relatively broad audience not only students who often adamantly prefer such user friendliness researchers and lecturers in Translation Studies Translation but also scholars and experts from other disciplines among which linguistics sociology history psychology In addition the HTS addresses any of those with a professional or personal interest in the problems of translation interpreting localization editing etc such as communication specialists journalists literary critics editors public servants business managers intercultural organization specialists media specialists marketing professionals Moreover The HTS offers added value First of all it is the first Handbook with this scope in Translation Studies that has both a print edition and an online version The advantages of an online version are obvious it is more flexible and accessible and in addition the entries can be regularly revised and updated The Handbook is variously searchable by article by author by subject A second benefit is the interconnection with the selection and organization principles of the online Translation Studies Bibliography TSB The taxonomy of the TSB has been partly applied to the selection of entries for the HTS Moreover many items in the reference lists are hyperlinked to the TSB where the user can find an abstract of a publication All articles between 500 and 6000 words are written by specialists in the different subfields and are peer reviewed Last but not least the usability accessibility and flexibility of the HTS depend on the commitment of people who agree that Translation Studies does matter All users are therefore invited to share their feedback Any questions remarks and suggestions for improvement can be sent to the editorial team at hts@lessius.eu Chinese Cinemas in Translation and Dissemination Haina Jin, 2021-11-29 Ever since film was brought into China at the end of the nineteenth century translation has conquered language ideological and cultural barriers and facilitated the dissemination of films in China Offering fresh visions and innovative studies on various important issues including mistranslation the dubbing of Hong Kong kung fu films the dubbing of foreign films in China the subtitling of Chinese dialect films the subtitling of independent Chinese documentaries and a vivid personal account of the translation and distribution of Chinese cinemas in France this book aims to generate international dialogue by presenting diverse approaches to the translation and dissemination of Chinese cinemas This book builds on previous research and further expands the horizons of the subfield with the hope that this intervention will suggest new possibilities and territories for the study of the translation of Chinese cinemas Translated foreign films have become an integral part of Chinese cinemas and translated Chinese films have in turn enriched the concept of world cinema In many ways it is a timely publication in the context of the globalization of the film industry as Chinese films increasingly go global The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Chinese Cinemas Media and Translation Dror Abend-David, 2014-07-31 Over the last decade there has been a dramatic increase in publications on media and translation In fact there are those who believe that so much has been published in this field that any further publications are superfluous But if one views media and translation as anything ranging from film and television drama to news casting commercials video games web pages and electronic street signs it would seem that research in media and translation has barely scratched the surface The research in this field is shared largely by scholars in communication and translation studies often without knowledge of each other or access to their respective methods of scholarship This collection will rectify this lack of communication by bringing such scholars together and creating a context for a theoretical discussion of the entire emerging field of Media and Translation with a preference for theoretical work rather than case studies on translation and communications of various forms and through various media

Representing Translation Dror Abend-David, 2019-02-21 In an increasingly global and multilingual society translators have transitioned from unobtrusive stagehands to key intercultural mediators a development that is reflected in contemporary media From Coppola's Lost in Translation to television's House M D and from live performance to social media translation is rendered as not only utilitarian but also performative and communicative In examining translation as a captivating theme in film television commercials and online content this multinational collection engages with the problems and limitations faced by translators as well as the ethical and philosophical aspects of translation and Translation Studies Contributors examine the role of the translator as protagonist agent negotiator and double agent translation in global communication the presentation of visual texts multilingualism in contemporary media and the role of foreign languages in advertisements Translation and translators are shown as inseparable parts of a contemporary life that is increasingly multilingual multiethnic multinational and socially diverse Translation and Rewriting in the Age of Post-Translation Studies Edwin Gentzler, 2016-11-03 In Translation and Rewriting in the Age of Post Translation Studies Edwin Gentzler argues that rewritings of literary works have taken translation to a new level literary texts no longer simply originate but rather circulate moving internationally and intersemiotically into new media and forms Drawing on traditional translations post translation rewritings and other forms of creative adaptation he examines the different translational cultures from which literary works emerge and the translational elements within them In this revealing study four concise chapters give detailed analyses of the following classic works and their rewritings A Midsummer Night s Dream in Germany Postcolonial Faust Proust for Everyday Readers Hamlet in China With examples from a variety of genres including music film ballet comics and video games this book will be of special interest for all students and scholars of translation studies and contemporary literature

Translating Silent Cinema Dror Abend-David, 2025-09-17 Translating Silent Cinema examines closely the translation adaptation and reception of three silent films in English German and Yiddish to argue that the study of film translation should extend beyond textual translation to a wide selection of primary materials and the consideration of social economic cultural and historical contexts Close readings of Der Kaufmann von Venedig The Merchant of Venice 1923 Das alte Gesetz The Ancient Law 1923 and Ost und West East and West 1923 raise a theoretical question Can we discuss films in the same way that we discuss theater productions regarding each individual screening as a performance and compose a performance history of different films As no two film screenings are the same the author highlights the importance of a multidisciplinary approach to translation that combines insights from film studies translation studies and cultural and historical contexts Furthermore in linguistic comparison and in the study of the reception of the films in each language this book argues that each film is the subject of very different receptions under very different circumstances It also analyzes the relevance of films that were made in Austria and in Germany during the 1920s on Jewish themes to a contemporary debate about immigration racism and discrimination This book s pioneering analysis of the study of film translation encompasses a wide context of multiplicity of ideologies economic interests and historical contexts It will be of interest for readers in translation studies particularly in audiovisual translation film studies German studies and German cinema and Jewish studies and cinema
