Traumatic Incident Reduction Tir:

Traumatic Incident Reduction (TIR) Gerald D. French, Chrys J. Harris, 1998-08-25 Traumatic Incident Reduction TIR explores a powerful regressive repetitive desensitization procedure becoming known in the therapeutic community as an extremely effective tool for use in the rapid resolution of virtually all trauma related conditions Replete with case histories and accounts of actual TIR sessions this book provides a camera level view of TIR by describing the experience of performing TIR

Traumatic Incident Reduction (TIR) and Primary Resolution of the Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) Robert H. Moore, 2013-11-16 Traumatic Incident Reduction TIR and Primary Resolution of the Post Traumatic Stress Disorder provides a brief discussion illuminating the concept of PTSD how it arises what maintains it how it progresses to increasingly constrain a person's life PTSD also involves faulty thinking but focus on such present time reactions is ineffective without addressing the original trauma PTSD is the consequence of attempts to avoid re-experiencing Traumatic Incident Reduction TIR is a technique for overcoming this tendency allowing the sufferer to experience the traumatic incident in a special safe way In the case of multiple traumas this can be complex needing to deal with each It is necessary to find the original trauma which invariably has led to more recent ones and fully resolve it in one sitting This provides complete relief from the burden of the past trauma An individual session designed to handle a single incident may take between 20 minutes and 3 hours average 1.5 hours The primary incident may be obvious to the sufferer or hidden People with anxiety problems but no flashbacks may find forgotten traumas the resolution of which through Thematic TIR can eliminate current symptoms Currently occurring emotional and somatic symptoms are traced back in time until a root incident is found Emotion and thinking are intertwined correcting one will correct the other TIR focuses on the emotion Once the trauma is fully processed the person is able to think rationally about it Dr Moore's monograph will guide you in deciding whether you will benefit from TIR and may inspire you to train to become a facilitator who can help others with this powerful family of techniques Bob Rich PhD www.anxietyanddepressionhelp.com

Traumatic Incident Reduction and Critical Incident Stress Management Victor R. Volkman, John Durkin, 2006-09-01 An examination of Critical Incident Stress Management and Traumatic Incident Reduction and how cross training could benefit facilitators of both CISM and TIR

Critical Issues in Trauma Resolution Frank A. Gerbode, 2015-12-12 Most common approaches to post traumatic stress reduction fall into two categories coping techniques and cathartic techniques Some therapists give their clients specific in vivo literally in life methods for counteracting or coping with the symptoms of PTSD tools to permit their clients to learn to adapt to to learn to live with their PTSD condition Others encourage their clients to release their feelings to have a catharsis The idea is that past traumas generate a certain amount of negative energy or emotional charge and the therapist's task is to work with the client to release this charge so that it does not manifest itself as aberrant behavior, negative feelings and attitudes or psychosomatic conditions. Coping methods and cathartic techniques may help a person to feel better temporarily but they don't resolve trauma so that it can no longer exert a negative effect on the client. Clients feel better temporarily after coping or having a catharsis but the basic charge remains in place and shortly thereafter they need more therapy.

The Need for Anamnesis: recovery of repressed memories. Traumatic Incident Reduction (TIR) operates on the principle that a permanent resolution of a case requires anamnesis, recovery of repressed memories rather than mere catharsis or coping. To understand why clients have to achieve an anamnesis in order to resolve past trauma, we must take a person-centered viewpoint, i.e. the client's viewpoint, and from that viewpoint explain what makes trauma traumatic.

Beyond Trauma Victor R. Volkman, 2005-01-01 Victor Volkman has created a tool that takes the mystery out of one of the more remarkably effective clinical procedures in a way that can help millions of people revitalize and improve their lives. To those desperate people who have experienced trauma or tragedy, this process is a pathway to dealing with their feelings and getting on with their lives.

In the new book Beyond Trauma: Conversations on Traumatic Incident Reduction, Volkman presents a series of conversations with a wide range of people from many different backgrounds and experiences. Each provides his or her perspective on Traumatic Incident Reduction or TIR. For short: The book explains the techniques used by professionals and patients to help people sort out, resolve and overcome the negative effects of painful suffering.

Untold countless people have to deal with trauma in a wide variety of situations: Soldiers who experience war or injury, families dealing with death, chemical or substance abuse, parental neglect, child or sexual abuse, terrorism, crime and punishment. Beyond Trauma: Conversations on Traumatic Incident Reduction is unique in that it addresses both people suffering from the effects of traumatic stress and the practitioners who help them. This method has been effective in dealing with many areas of trauma, including Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) in such diverse groups as veterans, children, 9/11 survivors, motor vehicle accident and sexual abuse survivors. TIR is a brief, one-on-one, non-hypnotic, person-centered, simple and highly structured method for permanently eliminating the negative effects of past traumas.

Contributors include world-renowned experts in traumatology, including Windy Dryden, Ph.D., Joyce Carbonell, Ph.D., and TIR's developer, Frank A. Gerbode, M.D. Beyond Trauma highlights stories of TIR helping survivors to regain control of their lives. This book will be life-changing not only for survivors of traumatic incidents but also for the professionals committed to helping them.

Not in 30 years of practice have I used a more remarkably effective clinical procedure. Robert H. Moore, Ph.D. What people are saying about this book: Beyond Trauma: Conversations on Traumatic Incident Reduction is an excellent resource to begin one's mastery in this area of practice. Michael G. Tancus, LCSW, DCSW, Augusta Behavioral Health. I have found Beyond Trauma to be EXCEPTIONALLY HELPFUL in understanding and practicing TIR in broad and diverse areas of practice, not just in traditional trauma work. The information from various points of view is really priceless. Gerry
