Foster, Marc Mannes, Shenita Bolstrom, 2010-07-23 It is a great pleasure to offer this volume from Michael J Nakkula Karen C Foster Marc Mannes and Shenita Bolstrom as the latest in the Search Institute Series on Developmentally Attentive Community and Society Its importance to the series and this eld of inquiry and practice is readily evident in its title

Building Healthy Communities for Positive Youth Development Since the early 1990s Search Institute has invited and encouraged communities of all shapes and sizes to use its framework of Developmental Assets and principles of asset building to create strong vibrant and welcoming communities for children and youth We have operated largely at the grassroots level encouraging innovation and adaptation around a shared vision rather than proposing a program or model for replication We seek to learn as much from the communities as they learn from us This book offers in depth case studies of what happened in eight diverse communities that took up our invitation In them we see a wide array of strategies and approaches that on the surface seem to have little coherence But as Nakagawa and colleagues found underlying each of these distinct efforts was a deep commitment to transforming the social norms of community life to more effectively attend to young people's healthy development throughout the first two decades of life There have been many ambitious efforts aimed at comprehensive community change on behalf of young people

Researching Race in Education Adrienne D. Dixon,2014-06-01 In traditional educational research race is treated as merely a variable In 1995 Gloria Ladson Billings and William F Tate IV argued that race is under theorized in education and called for educational researchers to pay closer attention to the relationship between race and educational inequity Ladson Billings and Tate 1995 In particular they argued drawing on legal scholar Derrick Bell s notion of Racial Realism Bell 1995 that racialized inequities are not accidental or aberrant rather racialized educational inequities are the result of particular and specific policies and practices that are designed to maintain particular forms of dominance and marginalization More specifically Bell and later Ladson Billings and Tate argue that racial inequity persists despite liberal policies and legislation that were ostensibly designed to eradicate it The Racial Realist perspective takes into the consideration the longevity and history of racism racial inequity and White supremacy in the U S and serves as a mirror to reflect back the limitations of proposed policies and legislation that fail to address those issues In this way Critical Race Theory and the scholars who draw on CRT view our work as an important check and balance in the effort toward racial
