Violence Against Children In The Family And The Community:

Violence Against Children in the Family and the Community Penelope K. Trickett, Cynthia J. Schellenbach, 1998 Children in the United States experience violence in many forms They are the victims of physical and sexual abuse within their families they witness battering of and by their parents and they experience or witness violence in their schools and communities Poor children are especially at risk for experiencing these forms of violence Recently considerable research has accumulated documenting the psychological impact of such violence on children s development This book brings together in one volume the latest findings from researchers on violence with the aim of integrating findings and pointing out gaps in our knowledge that future research will need to address The book also describes promising interventions that have helped children already damaged by violence and suggests strategies for preventing violence before it occurs The book is divided into five sections that cover developmental consequences causes interventions prevention and future research and public policy issues This volume will be a resource for developmental psychologists violence researchers social workers and policy makers PsycINFO Database Record c 2004 APA all rights reserved

Contemporary Perspectives on Families, Communities and Schools for Young Children Olivia Saracho, Bernard Spodek, 2006-03-01 Early childhood education has always been an enterprising one Innovative models that provide connections among the family community and school of early childhood will continue to emerge through the years to acknowledge new educational ideologies new social demands and new knowledge The issues addressed in this volume can provide new directions to prepare early childhood scholars researchers and practitioners to work as a team in these different settings

Psychological Perspectives on Understanding and Addressing Violence Against Children Scott L. Moeschberger, Laura E. Miller-Graff, 2023 Violence against children is one of the most significant widespread and preventable threats to human development in our world today Children are the future of our society and understanding and addressing violence against children is critical to building cultures and systems that promote a just and sustainable peace This edited volume aims to provide an integrative review of psychological research on violence against children from a global perspective Drawing from frameworks in both psychology and peace studies contributors focus on the psychological research across global settings to illustrate the nature and effects of violence against children in various settings and examine recommendations for prevention practice and policy

The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child John Tobin, 2019-03-28 The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child is the most extensive and widely ratified international human rights treaty This Commentary offers a comprehensive analysis of each of the substantive provisions in the Convention and its Optional Protocols on Children and Armed Conflict and the Sale of Children Child Prostitution and Pornography It provides a detailed insight into the drafting history of these instruments the scope and nature of the rights accorded to children and the obligations imposed on states to secure the implementation of these rights In doing so it draws on the work of the Committee on the Rights of the Child international regional and

Human Rights Committee,2016 Violence against Women in Families and Relationships Eve S. Buzawa,Evan Stark,2009-06-08 This comprehensive overview of domestic violence against women and children in America covers the services meant to combat it the legal approaches to prosecuting it the public s attitudes toward it and the successes and failures of systems meant to address it The fight to end domestic violence consists of community based services for battered women laws and policies to combat the problem a broad spectrum of frequently innovative programs to protect or otherwise support abused women and children a dramatic shift in media portrayals of violence against women and a growing public critique of unacceptable forms of power and control in relationships These volumes offer another weapon in that battle Violence against Women in Families and Relationships takes stock of all of the ways in which legislation programs and services and even public attitudes have impacted victims offenders and communities over the last few decades Contributors pay special attention to how race class and cultural differences affect the experience of abuse They explore the efficacy of interventions and they provide compelling real life examples to illustrate issues and challenges Our society has made an enormous investment in stopping abuse in families and relationships but numerous questions still remain Many of those questions are answered in these pages as experts uncover the realities of domestic violence and the toll it takes on families individuals communities and society at large

Children and the Geography of Violence Sheridan Bartlett, 2017-09-19 Violence sabotages development both children s development and the development of the communities and neighbourhoods they rely on There is abundant evidence of the deep and lasting harm that can be done Violence breaks bodies and minds and exerts an insidious influence at every level The effects are immediate but can also linger damaging health trust and capability traveling through generations This book argues that it is impossible to understand the violence in young children s lives or to respond to it adequately without considering how embedded it is within their physical surroundings The relations of power that are the context for violence within households within communities and beyond are often expressed through control over space and the material conditions of life This book links the abstract concept of structural violence to the stark reality of personal harm drawing on evidence from a range of disciplines and from countries throughout the global South It explores the dynamics of cramped insecure housing poor water and sanitation neglected neighbourhoods forced evictions cities that segregate the rich and the poor landscapes of conflict and disaster and discusses their implications for young children An alternative approach to child protection is proposed anchored in the actions of organized communities negotiating to challenge inequities mend their environments and achieve security There is a fundamental synergy between building community and protecting children These are not separate agendas A place that works for children works better for everyone else as well This book will be essential reading for all those interested in young children in a global context whether as child protection professionals or those with a more general interest in children s rights issues or in cross cultural approaches to child development It will also be of great interest to students and researchers of development studies conflict studies family studies child development public health and urban planning
