recommendations they provide It is important to examine factors that can influence the likelihood of recommendations to be accepted and integrated into decision making processes The persuasion literature suggests that people are more likely to accept recommendations from credible and likable sources It has also been found that technologies can be more credible and likable when they give a variety of social cues that elicit social responses from their human users Thus it is argued that enhancing the social aspects of travel recommender systems is important to create more persuasive systems One approach to enhancing the social presence of recommender systems is to use a virtual agent Current travel recommender systems use various types of virtual agents However it is still not clear how those virtual agents are perceived by travel recommender system users and influence users system evaluations and interactions with these systems Consequently this dissertation aimed to investigate the influence of virtual agents presented in travel recommender systems on system users perceptions Specifically the virtual agents anthropomorphism as well as similarity and authority cues on system users perceptions of system credibility and liking were examined For this purpose two experiments were conducted For Study 1 the impacts of anthropomorphism of the virtual agents on users perceptions of virtual agents as well as recommender systems in terms of credibility and attractiveness liking were examined Anthropomorphism was manipulated with visual human appearance and voice output Study 2 tested the influence of virtual agents similarity and authority on travel recommender system users perceptions of virtual agents and system credibility and attractiveness liking Similarity and authority of the virtual agent were tested by manipulating nonverbal cues age and outfit of the agent The results showed that the characteristics of virtual agents have some influences on system users perceptions of virtual agents as well as recommender systems Specifically a human like appearance of the virtual agent is found to positively influence users perceived attractiveness of the virtual agent while voice outputs were found to enhance users liking of the system Study 1 Findings also indicate that RS users perceptions of virtual agent expertise are increased when virtual agents wear a uniform rather than a casual outfit Study 2 In addition system users perceptions of the virtual agent s credibility are found to have a significant influence on users perceived credibility and liking of the overall system which implies an important role of virtual agents in recommender system evaluations Further perceived credibility and liking of recommender systems lead to favorable evaluations of the recommendations which in turn increase users intentions to travel to the recommended destination Past travel recommender system studies have largely neglected the social role of recommender systems as advice givers Also it is not clear whether the specific characteristics of virtual agents presented as a part of the system interface influence system users perceptions This dissertation sought to close this knowledge gap By applying classic interpersonal communication theories to human and system relationships this dissertation expands the scope of traditional theories used in the context of studying recommender systems Further the results of the research presented in this dissertation provide insights for tourism marketing as well as practical implications for travel recommender system design

Development of a Tourism Recommender System Emili Roger Ciurana Simó,2012 Nowadays many people rely on online services to plan a trip However they are usually faced with the problem of being supplied with lots of information In consequence they have to invest a great deal of time to decide what to visit when etc This huge amount of possibilities available on the net makes it difficult for users to discern the more interesting offers from the rest As a result the more appealing offers can go unnoticed In order to improve the tourist experience recommender systems offer personalised information to users In other words the system selects the more suitable and adequate offers for users and offers activities appropriate to their profile In this thesis we present the EnoSigTur system a smart recommender system for tourists interested in experiences related to the wine sector It has been developed in the Parc Científic i Tecnològic de Turisme i Oci of Vila-seca with the collaboration of researchers in the Universitat Rovira i Virgili Through a web application the system allows users to know wine production activities available in the region of Tarragona Users just have to indicate their interests in general terms and the system will select the more convenient activities for them EnoSigTur is capable of modifying the initial information of the users preferences by studying the interaction between the user and the system and offering them more adjusted recommendations This system also allows users to plan a trip by providing advanced planning services for example date length of the trip etc A mobile phone application will permit users to monitor the planned trip while it is taking place EnoSigTur is designed to supply a user friendly and flexible service either to visitors with a superficial knowledge of the wine production area or to experienced visitors who have already been in contact with these types of activities Moreover as we suggested before it provides personalised recommendations according to users interests gives clients the necessary tools to plan the trip and makes it possible for them to discover other activities in the region In the following chapters we will deal with the main problems that tourism presents in terms of information search and decision making processes We will also present the recommender systems and the ontology so that the reader will be able to grasp the gist of the project Finally we will give details of our recommender system
