Toward Climate Justice Perspectives On The Climate Crisis And Social Change:

Toward Climate Justice Brian Tokar, 2010 The call for Climate Justice promises a renewed grassroots response to the climate crisis This emerging movement is rooted in land based and urban communities around the world that are already experiencing the impacts of global climate disruptions Climate Justice highlights the social justice and human rights dimensions of the crisis using creative direct action to press for real systemic changes Toward Climate Justice explains the case for Climate Justice challenges the myths underlying carbon markets and other false solutions including the emergence of new nuclear and biofuel technologies and dissects the events that shaped the diplomatic failure of the 2009 Copenhagen climate summit Drawing on more than three decades of political engagement with energy and climate issues Brian Tokar shows how the perspective of social ecology can point the way toward an ecological reconstruction of society publisher s description

Ecosocialism and Climate Justice Eve Croeser, 2020-10-01 This book investigates the broader climate movement to contextualise the role played by its climate justice wing focusing specifically on the theoretical and practical contributions of ecosocialists Ecosocialism and Climate Justice provides an account of the shift from the Holocene to the Anthropocene in the context of the global spread of capitalist relations of production Croeser begins by critically analysing the root causes of anthropogenic climate change and identifies the origins and development of the current climate movement within civil society She then focuses on the climate justice movement analysing the ways in which anthropogenic global warming may be challenged in a way that is socially just Overall this book provides further insight into the effectiveness of ecosocialist theory and activism in the context of existing global national and local power relationships This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate justice climate politics critical global political economy studies and environmental activism

Environmental Communication and the Public Sphere Robert Cox, 2013 The Third Edition of Environmental Communication and the Public Sphere by Robert Cox remains the only comprehensive introduction to the growing field of environmental communication This innovative book focuses on the role that human communication plays in influencing the ways we perceive the environment It also examines how we define environmental problems and decide what actions to take with regards to the natural world

Ecological Restoration in International Environmental Law Anastasia Telesetsky, An Cliquet, Afshin Akhtar-Khavari, 2016-12-01 Human activities are depleting ecosystems at an unprecedented rate In spite of nature conservation efforts worldwide many ecosystems including those critical for human well being have been damaged or destroyed States and citizens need a new vision of how humans can reconnect with the natural environment With its focus on the long term holistic recovery of ecosystems ecological restoration has received increasing attention in the past decade from both scientists and policymakers Research on the implications of ecological restoration for the law and law for ecological restoration has been largely overlooked This is the first published book to examine comprehensively the relationship between international environmental law and ecological restoration While international environmental law IEL

has developed significantly as a discipline over the past four decades this book enquires whether IEL can now assist states in making a strategic transition from not just protecting and maintaining the natural environment but also actively restoring it Arguing that states have international duties to restore this book offers reflections on the philosophical context of ecological restoration and the legal content of a duty to restore from an international law European Union law and national law perspective The book concludes with a discussion of several contemporary themes of interest to both lawyers and ecologists including the role of private actors protected areas and climate change in ecological restoration

Climate Justice in the Majority World Neil J.W. Crawford, Kavya Michael, Michael Mikulewicz, 2023-07-31 This edited collection explores a diverse range of climate in justice case studies from the Majority World where most of humans and non humans live It is also the site of the most severe impacts of climate change and home to some of the key solutions for the climate crisis The collection brings together 12 chapters featuring the work of over 30 authors from around the globe The impacts of climate change are disproportionately affecting individuals communities and countries in the Majority World who historically have contributed little to rising global temperatures The 12 chapters focus on a range of cross cutting themes demonstrating both individual and collective experiences of climate change and struggles for achieving climate justice from the Majority World This includes activism resistance and social movement organizing in India and Brazil lived experiences and understandings of frontline communities in Bangladesh and South Africa consequences of and responses to disasters in Mozambique and Puerto Rico and contested accounts narratives and futures in the Maldives and Pakistan among other topics By adopting a decolonial lens this book provides rich empirical content insightful comparisons and novel conceptual interventions It foregrounds climate justice from an intersectional perspective and contributes to the ongoing efforts by scholars and activists to address epistemic injustice in climate change research policy and practice It will appeal to undergraduate and graduate level students academics activists policymakers and members of the public concerned with the impacts and inequalities of climate change in the Majority World

Climate Justice Randall Abate, 2016 Softbound New softbound print book Religious and Theological Abstracts , 1999 Diversifying Power Jennie C. Stephens, 2020-09-17

The climate crisis is a crisis of leadership For too long too many leaders have prioritized corporate profits over the public good exacerbating climate vulnerabilities while reinforcing economic and racial injustice Transformation to a just sustainable renewable based society requires leaders who connect social justice to climate and energy During the Trump era connections among white supremacy environmental destruction and fossil fuel dependence have become more conspicuous Many of the same leadership deficiencies that shaped the inadequate response in the United States to the coronavirus pandemic have also thwarted the US response to the climate crisis The inadequate and ineffective framing of climate change as a narrow isolated discrete problem to be solved by technical solutions is failing The dominance of technocratic white male perspectives on climate and energy has inhibited investments in social change and social innovations With new leadership and diverse voices we can strengthen climate resilience reduce racial and economic inequities and promote social justice In Diversifying Power energy expert Jennie Stephens argues that the key to effectively addressing the climate crisis is diversifying leadership so that antiracist feminist priorities are central All politics is now climate politics so all policies from housing to health now have to integrate climate resilience and renewable energy Stephens takes a closer look at climate and energy leadership related to job creation and economic justice health and nutrition housing and transportation She looks at why we need to resist by investing in bold diverse leadership to curb the the polluter elite We need to reclaim and restructure climate and energy systems so policies are explicitly linked to social economic and racial justice Inspirational stories of diverse leaders who integrate antiracist feminist values to build momentum for structural transformative change are woven throughout the book along with Stephens experience as a woman working on climate and energy The shift from a divided unequal extractive and oppressive society to a just sustainable regenerative and healthy future has already begun But structural change needs more bold and ambitious leaders at all levels like Alexandria Ocasio Cortez with the Green New Deal

or the Secwepemc women of the Tiny House Warriors resisting the Trans Mountain pipeline Diversifying Power offers hope and optimism Stephens shows how the biggest challenges facing society are linked and anyone can get involved to leverage the power of collective action By highlighting the creative individuals and organizations making change happen she provides inspiration and encourages transformative action on climate and energy justice Climate Justice and Human Rights

Tracey Skillington, 2016-11-25 This book shows that escalating climate destruction today is not the product of public indifference but of the blocked democratic freedoms of peoples across the world to resist unwanted degrees of capitalist interference with their ecological fate or capacity to change the course of ecological disaster The author assesses how this state of affairs might be reversed and the societal relevance of universal human rights rejuvenated It explores how freedom from want war persecution and fear of ecological catastrophe might be better secured in the future through a democratic reorganization of procedures of natural resource management and problem resolution amongst self determining communities It looks at how increasing human vulnerability to climate destruction forms the basis of a new peoples powered demand for greater climate justice as well as a global movement for preventative action and reflexive societal learning
