What Designers Know Bryan Lawson:

What Designers Know Bryan Lawson, 2012-08-06 Each chapter deals with a different technique from which we can best represent and make explicit the forms of knowledge used by designers The book explores whether design knowledge is special and attempts to get to the root of where design knowledge comes from Crucially it focuses on how designers use drawings in communicating their ideas and how they converse with them as their designs develop It also shows how experienced designers use knowledge differently to novices suggesting that design expertise can be developed Overall this book builds a layout of the kinds of skill knowledge and understanding that make up what we call designing

How Designers Think Bryan Lawson, 2005 How Designers Think is based on Bryan Lawson's many observations of designers at work interviews with designers and their clients and collaborators This extended work is the culmination of forty years research and shows the belief that we all can and do design and that we can learn to design better The creative mind continues to have the power to surprise and this book aims to nurture and extend this creativity Neither the earlier editions nor this book are intended as authoritative prescriptions of how designers should think but provide helpful advice on how to develop an understanding of design In this fourth edition Bryan Lawson continues to try and understand how designers think to explore how they might be better educated and to develop techniques to assist them in their task Some chapters have been revised and three completely new chapters added The book is now intended to be read in conjunction with What Designers Know which is a companion volume Some of the ideas previously discussed in the third edition of How Designers Think are now explored more thoroughly in What Designers Know For the first time this fourth edition works towards a model of designing and the skills that collectively constitute the design process

Design through Dialogue Karen A. Franck, Teresa von Sommaruga Howard, 2010-02-15 Completed projects receive more public attention than the process of their creation and so the myth that architects design buildings alone lives on In fact architects work with a great many others and the relationships that develop particularly with clients have a significant impact on design Design through Dialogue explores the relationship between client and architect through the lens of four overlapping activities that occur during any project relating talking exploring and transforming Cases of design and collaboration range from smaller scale retail residential and educational projects in the US Sweden the UK and the Pacific Rim to large institutions including Seattle's Central Library the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington DC the Supreme Court in Jerusalem and the Museum of New Zealand Material is taken from interviews with clients and architects and research in psychotherapy group dynamics and design studies Throughout the book aspects of process are linked to design outcomes to illustrate how architects and clients collaborate creatively

Transdisciplinary Knowledge Production in Architecture and Urbanism Isabelle Doucet, Nel Janssens, 2011-01-13 The volume addresses the hybridisation of knowledge production in space related research In contrast with interdisciplinary knowledge which is primarily located in scholarly environments

transdisciplinary knowledge production entails a fusion of academic and non academic knowledge theory and practice discipline and profession Architecture and urbanism operating as both a discipline and a profession seems to form a particularly receptive ground for transdisciplinary research However this specificity has not yet been developed into a full fledged unique mode of knowledge production In order to dedicate specific attention to transdisciplinary knowledge production this book aims to explore new hybrid modes of inquiry that allow many of architecture s longstanding schisms to be overcome such as between theory history and practice critical theory and projective design the adoption of an external viewpoint and a view from within often under the guise of bottom up vs top down It therefore offers the reader a mix of contributions that elaborate on knowledge production that is situated in the architectural and urban profession or practice and on practice based approaches in theory
