Laughing Mad Bambi Haggins, 2007 In Laughing Mad Bambi Haggins looks at how this transition occurred in a variety of media and shows how this integration has paved the way for black comedians and their audiences to affect each other Historically African American performers have been able to use comedy as a pedagogic tool interjecting astute observations about race relations while the audience is laughing And yet Haggins makes the convincing argument that the potential of African American comedy remains fundamentally unfulfilled as the performance of blackness continues to be made culturally digestible for mass consumption

Birth of an Industry Nicholas Sammond, 2015-08-27 In Birth of an Industry Nicholas Sammond describes how popular early American cartoon characters were derived from blackface minstrelsy He charts the industrialization of animation in the early twentieth century its representation in the cartoons themselves and how important blackface minstrels were to that performance standing in for the frustrations of animation workers Cherished cartoon characters such as Mickey Mouse and Felix the Cat were conceived and developed using blackface minstrelsy's visual and performative conventions these characters are not like minstrels they are minstrels They play out the social cultural political and racial anxieties and desires that link race to the laboring body just as live minstrel show performers did Carefully examining how early animation helped to naturalize virulent racial formations Sammond explores how cartoons used laughter and sentimentality to make those stereotypes seem not only less cruel but actually pleasurable Although the visible links between cartoon characters and the minstrel stage faded long ago Sammond shows how important those links are to thinking about animation then and now and about how cartoons continue to help to illuminate the central place of race in American cultural and social life

A comprehensive study of the most exciting filmmaker working today. Robert Burgoyne, University of St Andrews. A Companion to Martin Scorsese Revised Edition is a comprehensive collection of original essays assessing the career of one of America's most prominent contemporary filmmakers. The first reference work of its kind, this book contains contributions from influential scholars in North America and Europe. Several of the essays offer fresh interpretations of some of Scorsese's most influential films including Mean Streets, Taxi Driver, Raging Bull, GoodFellas, Gangs of New York, Hugo, and The Irishman. Trying to Get Over Keith Corson, 2016-03-22

From 1972 to 1976, Hollywood made an unprecedented number of films targeted at black audiences. But following this era known as blaxploitation, the momentum suddenly reversed for black filmmakers and a large void separates the end of blaxploitation from the black film explosion that followed the arrival of Spike Lee's She's Gotta Have It in 1986. Illuminating an overlooked era in African American film history, Trying to Get Over is the first in-depth study of black directors working during the decade between 1977 and 1986. Keith Corson provides a fresh definition of blaxploitation, lays out a concrete reason for its end, and explains the major gap in African American representation during the years that followed. He focuses primarily on the work of eight directors: Michael Schultz, Sidney Poitier, Jamaa Fanaka, Fred Williamson, Gilbert Moses, Stan

Lathan Richard Pryor and Prince who were the only black directors making commercially distributed films in the decade following the blaxploitation cycle Using the careers of each director and the twenty four films they produced during this time to tell a larger story about Hollywood and the shifting dialogue about race power and access Corson shows how these directors are a key part of the continuum of African American cinema and how they have shaped popular culture over the past quarter century
