To Think Like a Mountain Niels Sparre Nokkentved, 2021-06-22 In the West shortsighted human self interest has resulted in devastating environmental losses The fur trade decimated beaver populations and streams and wetland ecosystems deteriorated Though most mining ceased by the late 1920s water running from the Pacific

Mine nearly a century later still carried ten times the lead level standard set by the federal Clean Water Act Where grazing depleted native bunchgrasses fire prone cheatgrass grew in its place Migrating from Idaho streams salmon once reached the ocean in ten to fourteen days Now it takes fifty or more In 2016 a snowstorm blew a flock of snow geese off course They landed on contaminated water and about three thousand died Author Niels S Nokkentved takes a fresh look at environmental challenges affecting Northwest residents His essays examine cultural conflicts over resource extraction threats to watersheds from abandoned mines wolf recovery in the northern Rocky Mountains the lingering effects of livestock grazing on western rangelands and the rapidly disappearing sage grouse They discuss the importance of forest fires the value of beavers the failed promises of salmon hatcheries the reasons behind the decline of the timber industry in the Pacific Northwest and how unlikely allies learned to set aside their differences in order to resolve long standing disputes Nokkentved's goal is to encourage people to think like a mountain in other words to consider the long term consequences He shares his connection to each concern as well as his own evidence based perspective He believes that it most profits society collectively and as individuals when people respect the balance of nature and he wants to draw others to the same conclusion

Risk Analysis of Natural Hazards Paolo Gardoni, Colleen Murphy, Arden Rowell, 2015-10-17 This volume investigates the interdisciplinary and cross cutting challenges in the risk analysis of natural hazards It brings together leading minds in engineering science philosophy law and the social sciences Parts I and II of this volume explore risk assessment first by providing an overview of the interdisciplinary interactions involved in the assessment of natural hazards and then by exploring the particular impacts of climate change on natural hazard assessment Part III discusses the theoretical frameworks for the evaluation of natural hazards Finally Parts IV and V address the risk management of natural hazards providing first an overview of the interdisciplinary interactions underlying natural hazard management and then exploring decision frameworks that can help decision makers integrate and respond to the complex relationships among natural events the built environment and human behavior Forest Fire Bhupender Gupta, Ghanshyam Agrawal, Anjali Chauhan, 2022-07-07

The book on Forest Fire Characteristics and Management embodies seven chapters providing an updated comprehensive information on history causes types characteristics behaviour effects of fire on ecosystem dynamics i e plant community ecosystem wildlife and soils damaging beneficial effects prediction management and prevention control of forest fires In each chapter the readers will find complete information aptly backed by authentic data examples and illustrations Chapter eight is dedicated to bibliography This book will be useful to students and researchers as a part of their curriculum and for forest managers officials and planners as an important guide for managing forest fires Working on Earth Christina Robertson, Jennifer Westerman, 2015-02-25 This collection of essays examines the relationship between environmental injustice and the exploitation of working class people Twelve scholars from the fields of environmental humanities and the humanistic social sciences explore connections between the current and unprecedented rise of environmental degradation economic inequality and widespread social injustice in the United States and Canada The authors challenge prevailing cultural narratives that separate ecological and human health from the impacts of modern industrial capitalism Essay themes range from how human survival is linked to nature to how the use and abuse of nature benefit the wealthy elite at the expense of working class people and the working poor as well as how climate change will affect cultures deeply rooted in the land Ultimately Working on Earth calls for a working class ecology as an integral part of achieving just and sustainable human development

This Land Christopher Ketcham, 2020-07-21 A big bold book about public lands The Desert Solitaire of our time Outside A hard hitting look at the battle now raging over the fate of the public lands in the American West and a plea for the protection of these last wild places The public lands of the western United States comprise some 450 million acres of grassland steppe land canyons forests and mountains It s an American commons and it is under assault as never before Journalist Christopher Ketcham has been documenting the confluence of commercial exploitation and governmental misconduct in this region for over a decade His revelatory book takes the reader on a journey across these last wild places to see how capitalism is killing our great commons Ketcham begins in Utah revealing the environmental destruction caused by unregulated public lands livestock grazing and exposing rampant malfeasance in the federal land management agencies who have been compromised by the profit driven livestock and energy interests they are supposed to regulate He then turns to the broad effects of those corrupt politics on wildlife He tracks the Department of Interior s failure to implement and enforce the Endangered Species Act including its stark betrayal of protections for the grizzly bear and the sage grouse and investigates the destructive behavior of U S Wildlife Services in their shocking mass slaughter of animals that threaten the livestock industry Along the way Ketcham talks with ecologists biologists botanists former government employees whistleblowers grassroots environmentalists and other citizens who are fighting to protect the public domain for future generations This Land is a colorful muckraking journey part Edward Abbey part Upton Sinclair exposing the rot in American politics that is rapidly leading to the sell out of our national heritage The book ends with Ketcham s vision of ecological restoration for the American West freeing the trampled denuded ecosystems from the effects of grazing enforcing the laws already in place to defend biodiversity allowing the native species of the West to recover under a fully implemented Endangered Species Act and establishing vast stretches of public land where there will be no development at all not even for recreation
