The Welcoming Classroom Building Strong Home To School Connections For Early Learning:

The Welcoming Classroom Johnna Darragh Ernst, 2014 Engaged families make a difference in the lives of their children. The children in today's early childhood classroom are more culturally, linguistically, and ability diverse than ever. As a teacher, your challenge is to partner with each family through recognizing their individual strengths, concerns, priorities, and resources. In The Welcoming Classroom: Building Strong Home to School Connections for Early Learning, Dr. Johnna Darragh Ernst offers practical ideas for creating a welcoming atmosphere for families that will encourage them to participate in their children's learning community. Learn practical ways to connect with families from varied cultural and language backgrounds and abilities. Gain new strategies for creating a home-school link to support learning. Create a richer learning environment by integrating unique family cultural perspectives. Learn ways to encourage family participation in decision making. Learn strategies to develop families as resources. Communicate the message that all families are valued members of the learning community. From improving children's school readiness to encouraging positive engagement with peers, promoting student academic achievement, increasing graduation rates, and helping reduce the negative impact of poverty, the benefits of engaging families early will impact the young children in your care long after they leave your classroom. Johnna Darragh Ernst, PhD, is a professor of early childhood education at Heartland Community College in Normal, Illinois. She specializes in helping early childhood professionals connect with families to create inclusive early childhood classroom communities.

Family and Community Partnerships Margaret Caspe, Reyna Hernandez, 2023-08-01 Family and Community Partnerships: Promising Practices for Teachers and Teacher Educators offers a fresh new look at the competencies, strategies, and practices that effective educators develop to build strong partnerships with families and communities. Written by leaders in the field, the book is an outgrowth of a cutting-edge initiative led by the National Association for Family School and Community Engagement to reimagine how educators are prepared for family and community engagement. Based on four guiding practices: reflect, connect, collaborate, and lead alongside families, each section of the book highlights theory, real-world strategies, discussion questions, and activities that can be used by teachers, teacher educators, and professional learning specialists to inspire new ideas for courses, workshops, and for self-reflection. Building Brilliant Connections Between Families and Schools Jennifer Ross, 2023-10-03 This timely and accessible resource explores the complex relationship between school practice and parental engagement and is a result of rich collaboration between educational professionals, policy makers, and innovators in bridging the often-challenging gap between school and home. Universal Design for Learning in the Early Childhood Classroom Pamela Brillante, Karen Nemeth, 2017-11-01 Universal Design for Learning in the Early Childhood Classroom focuses on proactively designing PreK through Grade 3 classroom environments, instruction, and assessments that are flexible enough to ensure that teachers can accommodate the needs of all the students in their classrooms. Typically developing students, gifted students, students who are impacted by poverty, children who speak multiple languages, or have a home language that is different than the classroom language, and students with identified or potential developmental or learning disabilities are all covered within this highly practical, easy-to-use guide to UDL in the early years.

Parent Engagement in Early Learning Julie Powers, 2016-03-07 This second edition of Parent Friendly Early Learning brings to life real scenarios that care providers face in today's world. We know parent engagement is important for a child's success, but how do you turn parent-provider relationships into partnerships? Learn how to improve parent-teacher communication, deal with family issues and special complications, and how to work with the modern family. Julie Powers has worked with children, families, educators, and communities for over forty years. She started preschool programs at the Dodge Nature Center in St. Paul, Minnesota; an inclusion-based program for Catalina Foothills School District in Tucson, Arizona; and was a consultant for the Air Force Child Development Centers. She has taught at colleges across the country and is currently an associate professor of early childhood education at University of Hawaii Maui College.

Learning at Home, PreK-3 Ann C. Barbour, 2009-10-15 This book is a great resource for educators and families and is filled with practical ideas to engage everyone in the fun of learning. Susan Stewart, Curriculum Consultant, Supervisor, Adjunct Instructor, Stark County Education Service Center, Ashland University, Wonderful! The author has done an excellent job of providing a wealth of materials for the educator and/or parent, as well as answering some tough questions about home learning for young children. Ken Klopach, Art and Gifted Educational Consultant, Chicago Public Schools, IL. Create a strong home-school connection through family activities that extend learning. Because families play a critical role in helping young children develop a strong academic foundation and a love of learning, teachers need to involve caregivers as partners in education and extend learning to the home environment. Learning at Home, PreK-3 helps teachers plan developmentally appropriate, creative homework activities that encourage positive learning experiences and reinforce important home-school connections. Packed with hundreds of engaging and interesting activities, this resource expands the concept of what constitutes homework and family involvement. Focused mainly on social interactions within the family, these playful, fun activities relate directly to children's own experiences. Employ concrete, easily accessible materials. Include shared reading experiences, family projects, and games.
