The Missing Link in Cognition Herbert S. Terrace, Janet Metcalfe, 2005-01-20. Are humans unique in having self-reflective consciousness? Or can precursors to this central form of human consciousness be found in non-human species? The Missing Link in Cognition brings together a diverse group of researchers who have been investigating this question from a variety of perspectives including the extent to which non-human primates and indeed young children have consciousness, a sense of self, thought process, metacognitions, and representations. Some of the participants, Kitcher, Higgins, Nelson, and Tulving, argue that these types of cognitive abilities are uniquely human, whereas others, Call, Hampton, Kinsbourne, Menzel, Metcalfe, Schwartz, Smith, and Terrace, are convinced that at least the precursors to self-reflective consciousness exist in non-human primates. Their debate focuses primarily on the underpinnings of consciousness. Some of the participants believe that consciousness depends on representational thought and on the mental manipulation of such representations. Is representational thought enough to ensure consciousness, or does one need more? If one needs more, exactly what is needed? Is reflection upon the representations that is metacognition the link? Does a realization of the contingencies that is knowing that, in Gilbert Ryle's terminology, ensure that a person or an animal is conscious? Is true episodic memory needed for consciousness, and if so, do any animals have it? Is it possible to have episodic memory or indeed any self-reflective processing without language? Other participants believe that consciousness is inextricably intertwined with a sense of self or self-awareness. From where does this sense of self or self-awareness arise? Some of the participants believe that it develops only through the use of language and the narrative form. If it does develop in this way, what about claims of a sense of self or self-awareness in non-human animals? Others believe that the autobiographical record implied by episodic memory is fundamental. To what extent must non-human animals have the linguistic, metacognitive, and/or representational abilities to develop a sense of self or self-awareness? These and other related concerns are crucial in this volume's lively debate over the nature of the missing cognitive link and whether gorillas, chimps, or other species might be more like humans than many have supposed.

The Fitness Instinct Peg Jordan, 2000-10. Glistening hard bodies strut their stuff on magazine covers, billboards, and television shows, writes Peg Jordan. Every time we stare, our shoulders slump, our bellies feel soft, and we grow a little more disappointed, thinking that fitness is something that's beyond our reach. What a mess. Of course we don't realize that the gorgeous photo of that fitness celebrity is the result of 1,000 worth of airbrushing. Jordan, respected fitness expert and editor of American Fitness magazine, set out to discover why 80 percent of us don't exercise and what works to get us moving. Jordan interviewed 400 formerly inactive people who had become active. She also studied both current research and movement styles of ancient cultures. In The Fitness Instinct, she puts it all together with an innovative 11-step method to get you exercising and loving it. The point is not to force yourself to do the trendy exercise of the day or join the flashy gym downtown in fact not to force yourself at all but rather to tap into your seventh sense your natural instinct for movement which once awakened will guide your every stretch run jump dance pushup and crunch and help you develop your own personalized program of holistic fitness A tall order but Jordan delivers what others only promise Your movement choices have to match your personality for example and she shows you how to figure out whether you re a racer stroller dancer or trekker and then which kinds of movement and times of day are best for you Besides the big picture of finding the exerciser within you Jordan addresses how to avoid being scammed by product promises myths and quick fixes Joan Price 5 Pounds Harley Pasternak,2015-03-03 For most people the hardest part of lasting weight loss is either getting started or reaching their goals too often motivation is tough to maintain or those final few pounds simply won t budge no matter how many hours are logged on the treadmill and how many calories counted Now from the New York Times bestselling author of The Body Reset Diet comes a deceptively simple plan to slim down whether you to need to shed those last few stubborn pounds or want to jump start a more significant weight loss effort 5 Pounds teaches you how to implement five simple strategies as daily habits Walk 5 miles a day Eat protein and fiber 5 times a day Do resistance exercise 5 minutes a day Sleep at least 7 hours a night Unplug at least 1 hour a day You will enjoy immediate results dropping 5 pounds or more in just 5 days and boost energy improve overall health and finally achieve long term weight loss success With step by step advice easy to prepare recipes and motivating success stories 5 Pounds will transform the way you look and feel forever
