Wilhelm Worringer Abstraction And Empathy:

Abstraction and empathy, by wilhelm worringer Wilhelm Worringer, 1953 Abstraction and Empathy Wilhelm Worringer, 1997-10-01 Wilhelm Worringer's landmark study in the interpretation of modern art first published in 1908 has seldom been out of print. Its profound impact not only on art historians and theorists but also for generations of creative writers and intellectuals is almost unprecedented. Starting from the notion that beauty derives from our sense of being able to identify with an object, Worringer argues that representational art produces satisfaction from our objectified delight in the self-reflecting confidence in the world as it is, as in Renaissance art. By contrast, the urge to abstraction, as exemplified by Egyptian, Byzantine, primitive, or modern expressionist art, articulates a totally different response to the world: it expresses man's insecurity. Thus, in historical periods of anxiety and uncertainty, man seeks to abstract objects from their unpredictable state and transform them into absolute, transcendental forms. Abstraction and Empathy also has a sociological dimension in that the urge to create fixed, abstract, and geometric forms is a response to the modern experience of industrialization and the sense that individual identity is threatened by a hostile mass society. Hilton Kramer's introduction considers the influence of Worringer's thesis and places his book in historical context. Theories of Art: From Impressionism to Kandinsky Moshe Barasch, 2000 Abstraction and Empathy Wilhelm Worringer, Richard Venlet, Thomas Bernstein, Victoria Miro Gallery (London), 1989 Invisible Cathedrals Neil H. Donahue, 1994-12-01 Invisible Cathedrals places Wilhelm Worringer in the foreground of discussions of Expressionism and German Modernism for the first time. These essays not only reveal the complexities of his individual works such as Abstraction and Empathy (1908) and Form Problems of the Gothic (1911) but also examine his lesser-known books and essays of the post-World War I years, the 1920s, and beyond. Invisible Cathedrals offers both a basic introduction to Worringer's writings and their broad influence and a profound and detailed revisionist analysis of his significance in German and European Modernism. It also provides the most comprehensive bibliography to date of his own work and of the scattered criticism devoted to Worringer in different disciplines. Worringer's works were provocative, widely read, and often reprinted, and were highly influential among artists and writers in Germany. As a result, they both raised suspicion in his own academic discipline of art history and excited discussion in other diverse fields such as literary and social theory, psychology, and film theory. Worringer emerges here not solely as a scholarly commentator on the history of art but also as an activist scholar who engaged his historical criticism of other periods directly in the production of culture in his own time. Contributors are Magdalena Bushart, Neil H. Donahue, Charles W. Haxthausen, Michael W. Jennings, Joseph Masheck, Geoffrey Waite, and Joanna E. Ziegler. Abstraction and Empathy Wilhelm Worringer, 1967 New Essays on the Psychology of Art Rudolf Arnheim, 2023-04-28 Thousands of readers who have profited from engagement with the lively mind of Rudolf Arnheim over the decades will receive news of this new collection of essays expectantly. Rewritten versions of contributions to an international conference held at the University of Antwerp in May 1992. Starting point for the conference was the vagueness of the very terms modernism and modernity. In the first section a group of comparatists address the theoretical and terminological problems of modernism. Practical readings of modernist writers, discussions of different modernist movements and the work of critics who have contributed to debates about modernism make up the second section. The third section looks at the problem of modernism from an interartistic and interdisciplinary perspective

Photography after Postmodernism David Bate, 2022-08-19

In life after postmodernism our conception of photography is not the same as before. Photography After Postmodernism starts with this conception and explores what changes have affected photography, its relation to social life and our image-centred culture. Engaging with the visual environment and issues that have emerged in the postmodern world, David Bate introduces fresh approaches and analysis of photographs and their place within the aftermath of postmodernist thought. The book shows how photographs circulate in an image world beyond their art or media origins that deeply affects our sense of time and relation to memory. The role of archives, dreams, memories and time are deployed to develop and resituate arguments about photography made by Roland Barthes in Camera Lucida to further engage and understand our contemporary condition. By considering how afterwordness is invoked in the developments of modern and contemporary photography, Bate demonstrates the complex ways in which photographic images resonate across public and private spaces while carrying a slippage of meaning that is never quite fixed yet always contingent and social. The approach shows how modernist photography was already invested in values that its discourse could not enunciate, which resonates with much contemporary photography today. Featuring a range of historical and contemporary images, the book offers detailed and innovative readings of specific photographs which open new avenues of thought for those studying and researching visual culture and photography

Henry Van De Velde on Rational Beauty, Empathy and Ornament Elie George Haddad, 2022-09-22

This book explores the different aspects of Henry van de Velde's creative activity through a study of his writings and major works of his German period 1900-1916, including his unpublished manuscript on ornament. The study casts light on this major figure in Early Modern architecture, specifically on his aesthetic theory centered around themes such as rational conception and empathy. This study focuses on this specific period of van de Velde's work as it constitutes the period of his greatest activity as a designer, teacher and architect. While examining the relation between his writings and his built works, it thematically addresses the different architectural works realized by the architect during this period Jung's Reception of Picasso and Abstract Art Lucinda Hill, 2022-03-31 This book explores the nature of Jung's understanding of modern art in particular his reception to the work of Picasso and his striking prejudice shown in his controversial essay of 1932 Offering an important contribution towards understanding Jung's attitudes towards Picasso and modern art the book addresses the impact that Jung's unwillingness to engage in a deeper exploration of modern artforms had on the development of his psychological ideas It explores and uncovers the reasons for Jung's derogatory view of Picasso and abstract art more generally revealing how Jung was unable to remain objective due to his own complex and equally fascinating relationship with art and the psychology of image making The book argues that modern art parallels Jung's interests by embracing the spirit of experimentation and using new imagery to challenge creative conceptions which makes Jung's attitudes towards modern art all the more surprising Jung's Reception of Picasso and Abstract Art will be of great interest to researchers academics and those interested in analytical psychology Jungian studies art history and modernism aesthetics and psychoanalysis Ethics in Culture Astrid Erll, Herbert Grabes, Ansgar Nünning, 2008-08-27 Alongside the recent cultural turn in the humanities there has been a noticeable return to ethical considerations With regard to literature as well as other media this has rekindled awareness of a tension antagonism or even disparity between ethics and aesthetics This volume of articles takes a more systematic and cross disciplinary approach to the widely mooted ethical turn in literature and other media than has been pursued so far It brings together a wide range of critical perspectives from literary studies media and cultural memory studies and philosophy tracing the complex and sometimes conflicting relationship between ethics and aesthetics in theoretical contexts and individual case studies as diverse as colonial architecture nineteenth century literary histories and postmodern writing and art
