Wind Monkey Robert G Barrett:

The Wind and the Monkey Robert G. Barrett, 2005 Robert G. Barrett's latest Les Norton adventure The Wind and the Monkey set in Port Stephens NSW is a romance as well as an adventure. Proving once again Barrett's enormous appeal to both men and women readers. A week's holiday in Shoal Bay courtesy of Price Galese. All Les had to do was help Eddie Salita get rid of a crooked cop. Why not? Les always wanted to visit Port Stephens. And nobody liked Fishcake Fishbyrne that much anyway. The first night in town Les gets arrested by the federal police then collared by a drug-crazed feminist author. The hit turned out to be a complete nightmare. Next thing it's a night drive into Newcastle with Eddie to sort out a team of local heavies. Somehow in the middle of all this Les meets Digger, Sweet Christian girl from the Church of the Peaceful Sea. Digger is a fiery little enigma wrapped in a burning secret. Digger found God. Les finds Elvis. Together they journey to Virgin Island, discover love and solve a mystery.

Postcolonial Postmortems Christine Matzke, Susanne Muehleisen, 2006 Recent crime fiction increasingly transcends national boundaries with investigators operating across countries and continents. Frequently the detective is a migrant or comes from a transcultural background. To solve the crime the investigator is called upon to decipher the meanings hidden in clues and testimonies that require transcultural forms of understanding. For the reader the investigation discloses new interpretive methods and processes of social investigation, often challenging facile interpretations of the postcolonial world order. Under the rubric postcolonial postmortems this collection of essays seeks to explore the tropes, issues and themes that characterise this emergent form of crime fiction. But what does the postcolonial bring to the genre apart from the well-known and valid discourses of resistance, subversion and ethnicity? And why postmortems? A dissection and medical examination of a body to determine the cause of death: the postmortem of the postcolonial not only alludes to the investigation of the victim's remains but also to the body of the individual text and its contexts. This collection interrogates literary concepts of postcoloniality and crime from transcultural perspectives in the attempt to offer new critical impulses to the study of crime fiction and postcolonial literatures. International scholars offer insights into the postcolonial postmortems of a wide range of texts by authors from Africa, South Asia, the Asian and African Diaspora and Australia, including Robert G. Barrett, Unity Dow, Wessel Ebersohn, Romesh Gunsekera, Kazuo Ishiguro, Sujata Massey, Alexander McCall Smith and Michael Ondaatje.
