Schoolhouse Politics Peter B. Dow,1991 Schoolhouse Politics tells the story of an experiment in curriculum design that was developed in the 1960s and called Man A Course of Study MACOS In an attempt to teach anthropology to ten year olds Jerome Bruner and his colleagues designed an elementary school course that combined fieldwork on the social behaviour of baboons a film based ethnographic study of an Eskimo tribe and hands on classroom materials MACOS was hailed as an original and exciting way to promote science literacy and to teach young people how to think like social scientists Teachers and students alike expressed enthusiasm for the course and it achieved nationwide distribution and widespread recognition as one of the outstanding social science curriculum projects of the period Yet by 1975 MACOS had been driven from the schools a casualty of a small but vocal group of conservatives critical of its content and methodology

Politics, Language, and Culture Joseph W. Check,2002-10-30 Politics language and culture are three of the most powerful forces affecting education today yet they have been little discussed in relation to systemic school reform the new status quo of urban schools This book looks at their effects through the eyes of teachers administrators and insider outsiders who are actually living reform at the school level in four widely different urban school systems Chicago San Francisco and Oakland California and Boston The book also creates a statistical and conceptual picture of urban education and school reform as national phenomena with deep historical roots and offers a composite case study of an urban elementary school undergoing reform The author argues that urban school reform is failing because its basic strategy is misguided and because reform thinking has consciously ignored three essential sources of knowledge about school change. Strategically, efforts for reform have relied heavily on the widespread replication of nationally promoted exemplary programs. This approach assumes that local schools lack the knowledge and will to solve their own problems and require prescriptive intervention from national models. In fact, the exemplary programs approach has yielded very limited success. What is needed instead is the creation and long-term support of unique local exemplary contexts that combine best practice approaches with local knowledge, conditions, and resources.

The Arena, 1909 Men, Events, Lawyers, Politics and Politicians of Early Rome Daniel Elbridge Wager, 1879
Educational Foundations, 1900 Learning at the Back Door Charles A. Wedemeyer, 1981

Wedemeyer stresses that learning is a natural, idiosyncratic, and continually renewable human trait and survival resource. It is not dependent upon teaching, schooling, or special environments. Although properly used, these resources enhance learning. There is a powerful subculture of independent learners who are responsible for much of the real progress that has been made in most areas of endeavor.
