Academic Entrepreneurship Michele Marcolongo, 2017-08-30. The pathway to bringing laboratory discoveries to market is poorly understood and generally new to many academics. This book serves as an easy-to-read roadmap for translating technology to a product launch, guiding university faculty and graduate students on launching a start-up company. Addresses a growing trend of academic faculty commercializing their discoveries, especially those supported by the National Science Foundation and National Institutes of Health. Offers faculty a pathway and easy-to-follow steps towards determining whether their discovery/idea/technology is viable from a business perspective, as well as how to execute the necessary steps to create and launch a start-up company. Has a light-hearted and accessible style of a step-by-step guide to help graduate students, post-docs and faculty learn how to go about spinning out their research from the lab. Includes interviews by faculty in the disciplines of materials science, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, information technology, energy and mechanical devices, offering tips and discussing potential pitfalls to be avoided. Traction Justin Mares, Gabriel Weinberg, 2014-08-26. Most startups end in failure. Almost every failed startup has a product. What failed startups don't have are enough customers. Traction Book changes that. We provide startup founders and employees with the framework successful companies use to get traction. It helps you determine which marketing channel will be your key to growth. If you can get even a single distribution channel to work, you have a great business. Peter Thiel, billionaire PayPal founder. The number one traction mistake founders and employees make is not dedicating as much time to traction as they do to developing a product. This shortsighted approach has startups trying random tactics, some as a blog post or two in an unstructured way that will likely fail. We developed our traction framework called Bullseye with the help of the founders behind several of the biggest companies and organizations in the world like Jimmy Wales, Wikipedia, Alexis Ohanian, Reddit, Paul English, Kayak.com, Alex Pachikov, Evernote and more. We interviewed over forty successful founders and researched countless more traction stories, pulling out the repeatable tactics and strategies they used to get traction. Many entrepreneurs who build great products simply don't have a good distribution strategy. Mark Andreessen, venture capitalist. Traction will show you how some of the biggest internet companies have grown and give you the same tools and framework to get traction. Technology Entrepreneurship Thomas N. Duening, Robert A. Hisrich, Michael A. Lechter, 2009-10-21. Recognizing the unique needs of the technology startup Duening focuses on intellectual property development funding and marketing selling more than other texts in this market Extensive use of technology examples case studies and assignments keeps the book relevant and motivating for engineering students Rich in case studies examples and in chapter elements that focus on the challenges of launching and operating a technology venture In depth examination of intellectual property development valuation deal structuring and equity preservation issues of most relevance to technology start ups Extensive discussion of technology management and continuous innovation as a competitive advantage Addresses the issue of leading managing motivating and compensating technical workers More time on the fundamentals of marketing and selling as these are elements of entrepreneurship commonly most neglected by engineers and scientists
