Alan Ball Thomas Fahy, 2013-08-23 Alan Ball Conversations features interviews that span Alan Ball's entire career and include detailed observations and insights into his Academy Award winning film American Beauty and Emmy Award winning television shows Six Feet Under and True Blood. Ball began his career as a playwright in New York and his work soon caught the attention of Hollywood television producers. After writing for the sitcoms Grace Under Fire and Cybill, Ball turned his attention to the screenplay that would become American Beauty. The critical success of this film opened up exciting possibilities for him in the realm of television. He created the critically acclaimed show Six Feet Under and after the series finale, he decided to explore the issue of American bigotry toward the Middle East in his 2007 play All That I Will Ever Be and the film Towelhead, which he adapted and directed in the same year. Ball returned to television once again with the series True Blood, an adaptation of the humorous, entertaining, and erotic world of Charlaine Harris's vampire novels. In 2012, Ball announced that he would step down as executive producer of True Blood in part to produce both a new television series and his screenplay What's the Matter with Margie.

New Body Politics Therí A. Pickens, 2014-02-05 In the increasingly multi-racial and multi-ethnic American landscape of the present, understanding and bridging dynamic cross-cultural conversations about social and political concerns becomes a complicated humanistic project. How do everyday embodied experiences transform from being anecdotal to having social and political significance? What can the experience of corporeality offer social and political discourse? And how does that discourse change when those bodies belong to Arab Americans and African Americans? Therí A. Pickens discusses a range of literary, cultural, and archival material where narratives emphasize embodied experience to examine how these experiences constitute Arab Americans and African Americans as social and political subjects. Pickens argues that Arab American and African American narratives rely on the body's fragility rather than its exceptional strength or emotion to create urgent social and political critiques. The creators of these narratives find potential in mundane experiences such as breathing, touch, illness, pain, and death. Each chapter in this book focuses on one of these everyday embodied experiences and examines how authors mobilize that fragility to create social and political commentary. Pickens discusses how the authors' focus on quotidian experiences complicates their critiques of the nation-state, domestic and international politics, exile, cultural mores, and the medical establishment. New Body Politics participates in a vibrant interdisciplinary conversation about cross-ethnic studies, American literature, and Arab American literature. Using intercultural analysis, Pickens explores issues of the body and representation that will be relevant to fields as varied as Political Science, African American Studies, Arab American Studies, and Disability Studies.

Modern Arab American Fiction Steven Salaita, 2011-04-13 Within the spectrum of American literary traditions, Arab American literature is relatively new. Writing produced by Americans of Arab origin is mainly a product of the twentieth century and only started to flourish in the past thirty years. While this young but thriving literature varies widely in content and style, it emerges from a common community and within a specific historical political and cultural context In Modern Arab American Fiction Salaita maps out the landscape of this genre as he details rather than defines the last century of Arab American fiction Exploring the works of such best selling authors as Rabih Alameddine Mohja Kahf Laila Halaby Diana Abu Jaber Alicia Erian and Randa Jarrar Salaita highlights the development of each author s writing and how each has influenced Arab American fiction He examines common themes including the Israel Palestine conflict the Lebanese Civil War of 1975 90 the representation and practice of Islam in the United States social issues such as gender and national identity in Arab cultures and the various identities that come with being Arab American Combining the accessibility of a primer with in depth critical analysis Modern Arab American Fiction is suitable for a broad audience those unfamiliar with the subject area as well as scholars of the literature
