each teacher's class at one university in Mainland China. Drawing on data from pre-lesson and post-lesson interviews with the teachers, lesson observations and documents in three consecutive semesters at the target university, the book delineates the processes of materials use in classroom settings. It also identifies four domains of factors that influenced the enactment of curriculum materials. Most importantly, by adopting Vygotsky's 1978 mediation theory and Remillard's 2005 participatory perspective, the book constructs a curriculum enactment mediation model to reveal the complex and mediated relations among teachers, learners, curriculum materials and context. It also recommends practical implications for materials developers, teacher educators, administrators and policymakers.
