Projecting Tomorrow James Chapman,Nicholas J. Cull,2013-01-30 Cinema and science fiction were made for each other Science fiction has been at the cutting edge of film technology and the genre has produced some of the most ambitious imaginative and visually spectacular films ever made Yet science fiction cinema is about more than just state of the art special effects It has also provided a vehicle for film makers and writers to comment on their own societies and cultures In this new study of the genre James Chapman and Nicholas Cull examine a series of landmark science fiction films from the 1930s to the present They include genre classics including Things to Come Forbidden Planet Planet of the Apes and 2001 A Space Odyssey alongside modern blockbusters Star Wars and Avatar They consider both screen originals and adaptations of the work of major science fiction authors such as H G Wells and Arthur C Clarke They range widely across the genre from pulp adventure and space opera to political allegory and speculative documentary there is even a science fiction musical Chapman and Cull explore the contexts and document the production histories of each film to show how they made their way to the screen and why they turned out the way they did Informed throughout by extensive original research in US and British archives Projecting Tomorrow will be essential reading for all students and fans of science fiction cinema Inventing

Tomorrow Sarah Cole, 2019-10-22 H G Wells played a central role in defining the intellectual political and literary character of the twentieth century A prolific literary innovator he coined such concepts as time machine war of the worlds and atomic bomb exerting vast influence on popular ideas of time and futurity progress and decline and humanity s place in the universe Wells was a public intellectual with a worldwide readership He met with world leaders including Roosevelt Lenin Stalin and Churchill and his books were international best sellers Yet critics and scholars have largely forgotten his accomplishments or relegated them to genre fiction overlooking their breadth and diversity In Inventing Tomorrow Sarah Cole provides a definitive account of Wells s work and ideas She contends that Wells casts new light on modernism and its values on topics from warfare to science to time his work resonates both thematically and aesthetically with some of the most ambitious modernists At the same time unlike many modernists Wells believed that literature had a pressing place in public life and his works reached a wide range of readers While recognizing Wells s limitations Cole offers a new account of his distinctive style as well as his interventions into social and political thought She illuminates how Wells embodies twentieth century literature at its most expansive and engaged An ambitious rethinking of Wells as both writer and thinker Inventing Tomorrow suggests that he offers a timely model for literature s moral responsibility to imagine a better global future

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow Simon John DeVries, 1975 The ancient Hebrews were distinctive in the way they understood time This study of Hebrew terms and phrases shows that they thought of time in qualitative rather than quantitative terms making it possible for them to conceive of a process and a goal in history
