Abstract. Under the background of cultural tourism economy, this paper explores the design methods of tourism cultural and creative products. Guided by the theory of semiotics three-in-one model, using FAHP and CRITIC model, combined with game theory, this paper screens and weighs cultural symbols, and discusses their application in tourism cultural and creative product design. Taking Caishiji as an example, this paper analyzes cultural symbols from four dimensions: shape, pattern, color and material, and applies them to the design practice of tourism cultural and creative products. The evaluation results show that this design method based on cultural symbols can effectively improve the design efficiency and scientificity, and the obtained tea set design scheme can also meet the needs of users. This study is of great significance for designers to understand and use regional symbols and improve the design effect of tourism cultural and creative products.

Keywords. Semiotics; Trinity model; Tourism cultural creation; FAHP; CRITIC

In recent years, the rapid development of cultural tourism economy has given birth to local cultural and creative industries, and tourism cultural and creative products have also become the research focus of scholars. The design research of tourism cultural and creative products is mainly carried out in two aspects: on the one hand, based on design theory, qualitative research is carried out from the generation mode and logic of cultural form symbols [1]. For example, Liu Yang et al. [2], Shi Aiqin et al. [3], Huang Wenqing et al. [4]; On the other hand, quantitative research based on user demand and big data drive discusses the design method of tourism cultural and creative products. For example, Yang Xiaoyan et al. [5], Xiao Derong et al. [6], Sun Binbin et al. [7]. Qualitative research is richer in explaining the formation of cultural content, but it lacks rational data support and insufficient conclusions. Quantitative research in the design practice of tourism cultural and creative products, it is more convincing to digitize design factors, but in practice, it lacks the guidance of design theory and is not logical. Therefore, taking the Caishiji scenic spot in Ma'anshan as an example, this paper intends to adopt the method of combining qualitative research with quantitative research, taking the semiotics triple integration model as the theoretical research basis, combining FAHP model, CRITIC model and game theory, and using fuzzy comprehensive evaluation method to verify the

Pezzullo, 2009-05-10 The first book length study of the environmental justice movement tourism and the links between race class and waste Tourist Experience Richard Sharpley, Philip Stone, 2010-10-04 To consume tourism is to consume experiences An understanding of the ways in which tourists experience the places and people they visit is therefore fundamental to the study of the consumption of tourism Consequently it is not surprising that attention has long been paid in the tourism literature to particular perspectives on the tourist experience including demand factors tourist motivation typologies of tourists and issues related to authenticity commodification image and perception However as tourism has continued to expand in both scale and scope and as tourists' needs and expectations have become more diverse and complex in response to transformations in the dynamic socio cultural world of tourism so too have tourist experiences Tourist Experience provides a focused analysis into tourist experiences that reflect their ever increasing diversity and complexity and their significance and meaning to tourists themselves Written by leading international scholars it offers new insights into emergent behaviours motivations and sought meanings on the part of tourists based on five contemporary themes determined by current research activity in tourism experience dark tourism experiences experiencing poor places sport tourism experiences writing the tourist experience and researching tourist experiences methodological approaches The book critically explores these experiences from multidisciplinary perspectives and includes case studies from a wide range of geographical regions By analyzing these contemporary tourist experiences the book will provide further understanding of the consumption of tourism

Studies on the Social Construction of Identity and Authenticity J. Patrick Williams, Kaylan C. Schwarz, 2020-08-03 As identity and authenticity discourses increasingly saturate everyday life so too have these concepts spread across the humanities and social sciences literatures Many scholars may be interested in identity and authenticity but lack knowledge of paradigmatic or disciplinary approaches to these concepts This volume offers readers insight into social constructionist approaches to identity and authenticity It focuses on the processes of identification and authentication rather than on subjective experiences of selfhood There are no attempts to settle what authentic identities are On the contrary contributors demonstrate that neither identities nor their authenticity have a single or fixed meaning Chapters provide exemplars of contemporary research on identity and authenticity with significant diversity among them in terms of the identities cultural milieu geographic settings disciplinary traditions and methodological approaches considered Contributors introduce readers to a number of established and emerging identity groups from sites around the world from yogis and punks to fire dancers and social media influencers Their conceptual work stretches from the micro analytic to the ethno national as authors employ a variety of qualitative methods including ethnographic fieldwork interviewing and the collection and analysis of naturally occurring interactions Several of the chapters look directly at identification and authentication while others focus on the social and cultural backdrops that structure these practices what unites them is the adoption of social constructionist sensibilities This book will appeal to anyone interested in understanding identity and authenticity

Turning the Tune Adam R. Kaul, 2009 The last century has seen radical social changes in Ireland which have impacted all aspects of local life but none more so than traditional Irish music an increasingly important identity marker both in Ireland and abroad The author focuses on a small village in County Clare which became a kind of pilgrimage site for those interested in experiencing traditional music He begins by tracing its historical development from the days prior to the influx of visitors through a period called the Revival in which traditional Irish music was revitalized and transformed to the modern period which is dominated by tourism A large number of incomers locally known as blow ins have moved to the area and the traditional Irish music is now largely performed and passed on by them This fine grained ethnographic study explores the commercialization of music and culture the touristic consolidation and consumption of place and offers a critique of the trope of authenticity all in a setting of dramatic social change in which the movement of people is constant

Lodging, Restaurant and Tourism Index, 2000 Affective Connections Dorota Golanska, 2017-12-20 Inspired by the philosophical framework of Deleuze and Guattari in relation to affect Affective Connections disavows the dominant oppositional discourse around representation to offer an affirmative approach to perception cognition and experience It advances a new materialist concept of synaesthetic perception where synaesthesia is understood as a union of senses This idea offers a new figuration for thinking about our cognition exploring the role of embodied experience and the agency of matter in the production of knowledge Looking at a number of memorials memory sites and artworks relating to the Holocaust the book uses this idea of synaesthetic perception to explore trauma memory and the production of art in relation to painful memories In doing so it demonstrates that modes of interacting with the past and encountering the lived experience of trauma can trigger a deeper understanding of these events and produce more complex forms of affective connections It proposes a shift away from empathy towards sympathy understood in new materialist terms not just as a sentimental response to trauma but as an affective notion that allows for a more comprehensive grasp of experiences of discrimination exclusion suffering or pain
