Tourism and Biopolitics in Pandemic Times Maartje Roelofsen,Claudio Minca,2023-12-29 This edited collection brings together interventions on the geographies of tourism in pandemic times approached from a biopolitical perspective Whilst the management of bodies has always been a constitutive part of tourism and its spatialities the COVID 19 pandemic has prompted the emergence of entirely new states of exception and emergency regimes geared towards tight restrictions and control over the mobility and embodied practices of millions of travelers and tourists Debates in tourism over the politics of life now more than ever ought to concern health and wellbeing for both individuals and selected populations not in the least because tourism has provided in many instances the socio spatial conditions for the virus to spread This book intends to show how a biopolitical analytical framework may provide a set of insights and critical perspectives that are key to the understanding of contemporary tourism practices and regimes of mobility security and in exclusion particularly in relation to the COVID 19 pandemic

Stuck with Tourism Matilde Córdoba Azcárate, 2020-10-20 Tourism has become one of the most powerful forces organizing the predatory geographies of late capitalism It creates entangled futures of exploitation and dependence extracting resources and labor and eclipsing other ways of doing living and imagining life And yet tourism also creates jobs encourages infrastructure development and in many places inspires the only possibility of hope and well being Stuck with Tourism explores the ambivalent nature of tourism by drawing on ethnographic evidence from the Mexican Yucatán Peninsula a region voraciously transformed by tourism development over the past forty years Contrasting labor and lived experiences at the beach resorts of Cancún protected natural enclaves along the Gulf coast historical buildings of the colonial past and maquilas for souvenir production in the Maya heartland this book explores the moral political ecological and everyday dilemmas that emerge when as Yucatán's inhabitants put it people get stuck in tourism's grip

Economic Geography of Tourism João Romão, 2025-05-13 This book provides an in depth exploration of the dynamic intersections between economic geography and tourism highlighting how spatial economic and social processes shape tourism development and how tourism in turn transforms economic spaces Combining theoretical insights with real world case studies it offers a comprehensive understanding of tourism's evolving role within economic geography The first part lays a strong theoretical foundation introducing key concepts such as the Tourism Area Life Cycle path dependence agglomeration economies smart specialization and regional resilience within the context of tourism research It explores spatial and temporal patterns in tourism development the growing influence of digitalization and smart tourism and the roles of innovation and competitiveness in shaping destination dynamics The second part shifts focus to tourism's broader economic and social implications It critically assesses urban tourism's links to gentrification circular economies and social conflicts while exploring strategies to address spatial enclaves and foster integrated tourism networks in low density and fragile regions Environmental challenges including the impact of tourism mobility on local communities and ecosystems are also examined The book concludes by addressing the tensions and future trajectories of tourism development questioning whether sustainable or regenerative tourism can thrive within market driven economies where decision making prioritizes individual preferences over collective well being It calls for a reassessment of contemporary policy and regulatory frameworks to align tourism with broader economic and environmental goals By bridging economic geography and tourism studies this book equips scholars policymakers and practitioners with analytical tools to rethink tourism development and advocate for strategies that are economically viable and effectively sustainable inclusive and resilient

Islandscapes and Tourism Joseph M Cheer, Solène Prince, Philip Hayward, 2023-04-07 The links between islands and tourism as sights of pleasure is embodied in the touristification of sun sand and sea Islandscapes are central to the tourist imaginaries that shape islands as touristified places curated designed and commodified for both mass tourism and more niche inclined versions Yet while islands are parlayed for touristic pleasure seekers islands are also home to longstanding communities that have variously battled with the tyranny of distance from metropolitan centres as well as the everyday challenges of climate change effects and benefitted from their isolation from modern day pressures This anthology of articles previously published in the journal Shima explores emergent themes that describe how island peoples adapt and respond in localised cultural landscapes as a consequence of tourism expansion It is aimed at researchers in island studies tourism sustainability human geography cultural studies sociology and anthropology The anthology will also be of interest to those with an abiding interest in the trajectories of islands and their peoples particularly where tourism has come to shape landscapes
