Rural Politics in Contemporary China Emily T. Yeh, Kevin O'Brien, Jingzhong Ye, 2016-01-22 This collection provides an overview of China's rural politics bringing scholarship on agrarian politics from various social science disciplines together in one place. The twelve contributions spanning history, anthropology, sociology, environmental studies, political science, and geography address enduring questions in peasant studies including the relationship between states and peasants, taxation, social movements, rural-urban linkages, land rights and struggles, gender relations, and environmental politics. Taking rural politics as the power-inflected processes and struggles that shape access and control over resources in the countryside as well as the values, ideologies, and discourses that shape those processes, the volume brings research on China into conversation with the traditions and concerns of peasant studies scholarship. It provides both an introduction to those unfamiliar with Chinese politics as well as in-depth new research for experts in the field. This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Peasant Studies.

The Political Economy of Making and Implementing Social Policy in China Jiwei Qian, 2021-09-28. This book explores the institutional factors in social policymaking and implementation in China. From the performance evaluation system for local cadres to the intergovernmental fiscal system, local policy experimentation, logrolling among government departments, and the top-level design, there are a number of factors that make policy in China less than straightforward. The book argues that it is the bureaucratic incentive structure that leads to a fragmented and stratified welfare system in China. Using a variety of Chinese and English language sources including central and local government documents, budgetary data, household surveys, media databases, etc., this book covers the development of China's pensions, health insurance, unemployment insurance, and social assistance programs since the 1990s, with a focus on initiatives since the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic. Providing a deeper understanding of policymaking and implementation in China, this book interests scholars of public administration, political economy, Asian politics, and social development.

China Urban and Rural Public Education Service Equalization Luo Zhe, 2021-11-03. Centering on issues of disparity and equality in basic public education services in China, this book proposes a performance measurement system that assesses and guides equality of basic public education in urban and rural areas. The author moves beyond traditional research approaches by drawing on methods of public management and mathematics. Pivoted on an improved balanced scorecard model, a complete set of indicators and measuring tools are constructed whereby the process of education equality can be more effectively measured, managed, and steered. Grounded in empirical studies on public education in the country's Sichuan Province, the book advances suggestions on better policies and optimizing implementation for the purpose of attaining equitable public education services in urban and rural areas. Finally, the study envisages further research directions and possible applications of the performance appraisal model. The title will be of value to scholars and students of education studies, especially those interested in public education, educational equity, and Chinese public education services.
