Corporate Ties That Bind Martin J. Walker, 2017-03-28 In the 21st century corporations have worked their way into government and as they become increasingly more powerful arguments about their involvement with public health have become increasingly black and white With corporations at the center of public health and environmental issues everything chemical or technological is good everything natural is bad scientists who are funded by corporations are right and those who are independent are invariably wrong There is diminishing common ground between the two opposed sides in these arguments Corporate Ties that Bind is a collection of essays written by influential academic scholars activists and epidemiologists from around the world that scrutinize the corporate reasoning false science and trickery involving those like in house epidemiologists who mediate the scientific message of organizations who attack and censure independent voices This book addresses how the growth of corporatism is destroying liberal democracy and personal choice Whether addressing asbestos radiation PCBs or vaccine regulation the essays here address the dangers of trusting corporations and uncover the lengths to which corporations put profits before health

Mad Studies: The Basics Merrick Daniel Pilling, 2025-05-19 Mad Studies The Basics provides an introductory account of a field that emerged from and must remain grounded within community knowledge activism and the perspectives of those who have experienced madness and mental health systems It is a concise text that introduces the field through an exploration of some origins of Mad Studies as well as two interrelated queries what does Mad Studies help us understand and what does Mad Studies help us do This exploration reveals that Mad Studies is an interdisciplinary intersectional and multi vocal field that demands different answers to the very meaning of the beliefs behaviours and bodymind experiences that are currently characterized as being indicative of mental illness At the heart of Mad Studies is a liberationist desire to resist transform and abolish the systems that create marginalization and implement responses to madness that are grounded in the collective knowledge of those deemed Mad This book shows that the contributions of Indigenous Black racialized queer and trans people must be understood as central to and already embedded within Mad Studies and activism rather than as add ons expansions or efforts to make Mad Studies more inclusive It will be of interest to all scholars and students of disability studies social work gender studies education health sciences sociology and psychology as well as practitioners in mental health care and those with lived experience of madness and mental health systems

Modern Medicine What if the Biomedical Paradigm is fundamentally flawed resulting in 95% of Modern Medicine being scientifically and medically wrong Doctors are mostly nice hard working and respectable people But what if they are killing and injuring many many times more people than they are healing because of their insane belief in the Biomedical Paradigm They have already been remarkably successful in killing millions of people with vaccinations chemotherapy and HIV AIDS They now want to create a medically induced bird flu pandemic that could kill tens of millions of people They will succeed in this endeavour unless enough ordinary people understand the horror that is the Biomedical Paradigm Back cover
