Hollins,2023-01-31 Nothing causes a stir on social media platforms like a topical discussion on the latest food trend Modern day chefs like to think that they are creative and often claim to push boundaries of food creation but if we want to explore real culinary creativity then we need to look to our ancestors Writer and food historian Seren Charrington Hollins delves into the history of culinary experimentation to bring us some of the weirdest and most stomach churning food delicacies to ever grace a dining table She uncovers the rather gruesome history behind some everyday staples uncovers bizarre and curious recipes whilst casting a light on foods that have fallen from culinary grace such as cows udders and tripe showing that revulsion is just a matter of taste times and perhaps knowledge From pickled brains to headcheese through to song birds and nymph s thighs this book explores foods that have evoked disgust and delight in diners depending on culinary perspective So pull up a chair unfold your napkin and get ready for a highly entertaining and enlightening journey to explore what makes a recipe revolting Be warned you ll need a strong stomach and an open mind The Politics and Aesthetics of Refusal

Caroline Hamilton,Michelle Kelly,Elaine Minor,2009-03-26 The Politics and Aesthetics of Refusal is an eclectic collection of essays from emerging academics who engage with the notion of refusal both as the embodiment of a resistance to conventional boundaries between academic disciplines and as a concept with an underlying negative or reactive force that can be widely interpreted and applied The applications of refusal outlined in this volume ranging from activism and the politics of cultural production through to problems of identity and knowledge classification raise questions about often elided relationships of agency and complicity in routine experience The sense of refusal that emerges from this book is perhaps most easily classified by what it is not namely a prescriptive conclusive or unified account of what it is to reject react or work against any particular instance of theory or practice in any given domain The value of a thematically oriented collection like this is its ability to work across disciplines media and philosophical frameworks rather than limiting its focus to a narrow territory According to Herbert Marcuse refusal must not only be the guiding principle for all artistic creation it must also be a manifestation of artistic creation itself With this volume we have attempted to compose a collection which is not only theoretically guided by refusal but practically informed by it as well The collection in itself constitutes we hope a constructive rejection of the usual constrictions of discipline and approach placed upon new scholars This rich collection of essays on the political aesthetic and ethical dimensions of that form of social action called refusal is an important contribution to our understanding of the tensions and contradictions of contemporary culture John Frow Professor of English Literary Studies at the University of Melbourne
