The Universe In The Landscape Landforms By Charles Jencks:

The Universe in the Landscape Charles Jencks, 2011-05-24 Landforms are a fast developing art form that enjoy a wide following today because of their multiple uses and their enveloping beauty As formal landscapes that often arise from necessity recycling a coal site for human use or making new use of excess earth they are a pleasure to walk over and through In this collection of his recent work Charles Jencks explains his particular approach to the landform Like the prehistoric earthworks of Britain that have been an inspiration such as Stonehenge his landforms contain cosmic symbolism and they draw together sculpture epigraphy water gardens scrap metal and architecture They address perennial themes identity patterns of nature death and the power of life but in a contemporary way based on the insights of science So Jencks portrays universal aspects of DNA the spacetime warp of a black hole the extraordinary way cells divide and unite and some basic forms of life Other designs include sharp comments on recent events a water garden of war in France critiques the 2003 invasion of Iraq using waterpults and hose guns among other interactive features a white garden made from birch trees flying bones and computer graphics deals with some fatal consequences of modernity Jencks addresses with wit and irony some of the strange possibilities that arise with extra large landforms Northumberlandia perhaps the largest human figure ever made presents the question of which body parts one can walk on safely which are dangerous and which need to be suppressed What became perhaps the heaviest work of art in the world at 20 million tons was also the opportunity to transform a large open cast mine into a dynamic landscape of giant mounds and sculpted lakes As in his The Garden of Cosmic Speculation to which this book is a sequel Jencks seeks to define a new landscape iconography based on forms and themes that may be eternal in the sense that they crystallise nature's laws some of which have been recently discovered To see a world in a grain of sand was a poetic quest of William Blake and in a different sense to find the universe in a ritual landscape was a goal of prehistoric cultures Jencks allies these spiritual affinities with the view of science that stresses the common patterns that underlie all parts of the cosmos thus making them like our home planet and the universe in a landscape

Epigenetic Landscapes Susan Merrill Squier, 2017-10-26 Devised in the 1940s by the biologist C H Waddington the epigenetic landscape is a metaphor for how gene regulation modulates cellular development As a scientific model it fell out of use in the late 1960s but returned at the beginning of the twenty first century with the advent of big data genomic research because of its utility among scientists across the life sciences to think more creatively about and to discuss genetics In Epigenetic Landscapes Susan Merrill Squier follows the model's cultural trail from its first visualization by the artist John Piper to its use beyond science Squier examines three cases in which the metaphor has been imaginatively deployed to illustrate complex systems that link scientific and cultural practices graphic medicine landscape architecture and bioArt Challenging reductive understandings of epigenetics Squier boldly reclaims the broader significance of the epigenetic landscape as a figure at the nexus of art design and science The Making of Place John Dixon Hunt,2015-11-15 Gardening is rich in tradition and many gardens are explicitly designed to refer to or honor the past But garden design is also rich in innovation and in The Making of Place John Dixon Hunt explores the wide varieties of approaches aesthetics and achievements in garden design throughout the world today The gardens Hunt explores offer surprising new ideas about how we can carve out a space for respite in nature Taking readers to gardens public and private busy and hidden away to botanical gardens small parks university campuses and vernacular gardens Hunt showcases the differences between cultures and countries around the globe including the United States United Kingdom France Germany China and Australia Richly illustrated The Making of Place is sure to enchant and inspire even the most modest of home gardeners Adventures in Eden Carolyn Mullet,2020-12-08 A bucket list tour of Europe s private gardens Acres of white blooming garden rooms on the island of Mallorca A seven tiered wonder of stone plants and water above Germany s Rhine River The Garden of Cosmic Speculation in a quiet Scottish valley These sumptuous landscapes are just three of the fifty destinations you ll visit on this exclusive tour of Europe s most beautiful private gardens From Belgium to Ireland Scandinavia to Wales Carolyn Mullet is your guide through intimate retreats normally off limits to visitors Short profiles introduce the intriguing owners and rich histories of each garden and the land they inhabit Among the featured gardens are works of eminent designers such as Tom Stuart Smith Andy Malengier and Louis Benech Whether you love exploring faraway places or creating your own landscape haven at home Adventures in Eden is the ideal armchair getaway glimpses into personal garden artistry that are sure to spark inspiration Time in Variance Arkadiusz Misztal,Paul A. Harris,Jo Alyson Parker,2021-09-20 This interdisciplinary volume of essays explores how the notion of time varies across disciplines by examining variance as a defining feature of temporalities in cultural creative and scholarly contexts Featuring a President s Address by philosopher David Wood it begins with critical reassessments of J T Fraser s hierarchical theory of time through the lens of Anthropocene studies philosophy ecological theory and ecological literature proceeds to variant narratives in fiction video games film and graphic novels and concludes by measuring time s variance with tools as different as incense clocks and computers and by marking variance in music film and performance art
