The researchers also used a computer-generated, randomized, and self-administered, 10-item Likert scale to assess the level of support for the 10 items being evaluated. The items range from strong support (strongly agree) to no support (strongly disagree). Data points in this measure, which are measured from 1 to 10, are presented in the table. The researchers found that the average level of support for the 10 items was 6.4, indicating that the researchers had a moderate level of support for the 10 items. The researchers also found that the average level of support for the 10 items was 6.4, indicating that the researchers had a moderate level of support for the 10 items.

Two athletes in blue and orange uniforms are shown in a hurdle drill. They are in a low, powerful stance, pushing off their back legs to clear a hurdle. The image is a still from a video, showing the progression of the movement.
