The Story of Young Abraham Lincoln Wyane Whipple,2014-09-03 From The Story Of Young Abraham Lincoln To the motherless boy the thought of his blessed mother being buried without any religious service whatever added a keen pang to the bitterness of his lot Dennis Hanks once told how eagerly Abe learned to write Sometimes he would write with a piece of charcoal or the p int of a burnt stick on the fence or floor We got a little paper at the country town and I made ink out of blackberry juice briar root and a little copperas in it It was black but the copperas would eat the paper after a while I made his first pen out of a turkey buzzard feather We hadn t no geese them days to make good pens of goose quills As soon as he was able Abe Lincoln wrote his first letter It was addressed to Parson Elkin the Baptist preacher who had sometimes stayed over night with the family when they lived in Kentucky to ask that elder to come and preach a sermon over his mother s grave It had been a long struggle to learn to write good enough for a preacher especially for a small boy who is asking such a favor of a man as high and mighty as a minister of the Gospel seemed to him It was a heartbroken plea but the lad did not realize it It was a short straightforward note but the good preacher s eyes filled with tears as he read it

Wayne Whipple Wayne Whipple,2017-12-11 The boy or girl who reads to day may know more about the real Lincoln than his own children knew The greatest President s son Robert Lincoln discussing a certain incident in their life in the White House remarked to the writer with a smile full of meaning I believe you know more about our family matters than I do This is because all the world loves a lover and Abraham Lincoln loved everybody With all his brain and brawn his real greatness was in his heart He has been called the Great Heart of the White House and there is little doubt that more people have heard about him than there are who have read of the original Great Heart in The Pilgrim s Progress Indeed it is safe to say that more millions in the modern world are acquainted with the story of the rise of Abraham Lincoln from a poorly built log cabin to the highest place among the seats of the mighty than are familiar with the Bible story of Joseph who arose and stood next to the throne of the Pharaohs Nearly every year especially since the Lincoln Centennial 1909 something new has been added to the universal knowledge of one of the greatest if not the greatest man who ever lived his life in the world Not only those who knew Lincoln but many who only saw him once or shook hands with him have been called upon to tell what they saw him do or heard him say So hearty was his kindness toward everybody that the most casual remark of his seems to be charged with deep human affection the touch of Nature which has made the whole world kin to him He knew just how to sympathize with every one The people felt this without knowing why and recognized it in every deed or word or touch so that those who have once felt the grasp of his great warm hand seem to have been drawn into the strong circuit of Lincoln fellowship and were enabled as if by the laying on of hands to speak of him ever after with a deep and tender feeling There are many such people who did not rush into print with their observations and experiences Their Lincoln memories seemed too sacred to scatter far and wide Some of them have yielded with real reluctance in relating all for publication in The Story of Young Abraham Lincoln only because they wished their recollections to benefit the rising generation Several of these modest folk have shed true light on important phases and events in Lincoln s life history For instance there has been much discussion concerning Lincoln s Gettysburg Address where was it written and did he deliver it from notes Now fifty years after that great occasion comes a distinguished college professor who unconsciously settles the whole dispute whether Lincoln held his notes in his right hand or his left if he used them at all while making his immortal little speech To a group of veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic he related casually what he saw while a college student at Gettysburg after working his way through the crowd of fifteen thousand people to the front of the platform on that memorable day From this point of vantage he saw and heard everything and there is no gainsaying the vivid memories of his first impressions how the President held the little pages in both hands straight down before him swinging his tall form to right to left and to the front again as he emphasized the now familiar closing words of the people by the people for the people shall not perish from the earth Wayne Whipple
